

Egypt Tells U.S. To Avoid Aqaba

Carrier Sails Past Suez, Into Red Sea

CAIRO (AP) — Shadowed by two Egyptian submarines, the U.S. carrier Intrepid sailed into the Red Sea today after passing through the Suez Canal.

About 300 Egyptian demonstrators screamed epithets at the carrier from the canal bank, apparently convinced the 41,000-ton ship will try to break Egypt's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba. The Defense Department in Washington insists the Intrepid is sailing for Vietnam.

Cairo newspapers reiterated charges that the Intrepid would take up a position off the Gulf of Aqaba, which President Gamal Abdel Nasser has barred to Israeli shipping.

The Egyptian submarines passed through the canal ahead of the Intrepid, then began shadowing her as she entered the Red Sea.

As the Middle East crisis simmered, troops from Iraq and Kuwait joined Arab forces against Israel, and Britain urged maritime powers to declare the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tiran at its mouth, international waters open to all ships, including Israelis.

The United States pushed for adoption by the U.N. Security Council of a resolution urging both the Arabs and Israelis to cool off while diplomats continued efforts to resolve the Middle East crisis.

The United States was told by Egypt to avoid involvement in Egypt's announced blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba and by Israel that not only Israel's interests but the foundations of international law are at stake in the Aqaba issue. The gulf leads to the Israeli port of Elath, through which 90 per cent of the Jewish nation's oil is imported.

Warns Nasser
In a pointed warning to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, British Foreign Secretary George Brown told the House of Commons that the British government will consider a possible U.S. move to force the carrier to leave the Red Sea.

Group on West Coast Puts Ban on Sunshine

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A car dealer has organized a "We Love Rain Society" aimed at keeping out-of-staters out of Washington.

The dealer, Dick Lewis, said Wednesday the idea is to cut down on the state's population growth by pushing the image that it rains a lot in Washington. He said society members are instructed not to mail any sunny pictures out of state, always wear a raincoat, and hide all bathing suits, sport shirts, sunglasses and sun-tan lotion.

Combined Locks Girl Darts Into Street Near Home, Killed by Auto

COMBINED LOCKS — A six-year-old Combined Locks girl was struck and killed by a car as she was returning home from her kindergarten class Wednesday afternoon.

six children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Schommer, 202 E. Elm St., was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, where she was taken by Larry's Ambulance.

Combined Locks police identified the driver of the car that struck the girl as Kenneth J. Kroiss, 19, route 4, Appleton. He was alone in his 1966 auto.

The accident occurred at Prospect Street (Outagamie County Trunk Z) and Elm Street, about three blocks from the girl's home. She was crossing Prospect from the north side with her friend and classmate, Lori Wulterkens, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wulterkens Jr., 209 E. Elm St. Witnesses said the Schommer girl darted in front of the eastbound Kroiss auto. The left front fender of the car struck the girl. Police said she was not in the crosswalk.

Both girls were going home from afternoon kindergarten

Envoy Says Deeper Crisis Would Result

His statement came after a one-hour session with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

President Johnson met with his Cabinet to discuss the crisis, but the White House continues to remain silent on any developments. This follows a policy, announced last week, of working through diplomatic channels to resolve the dispute.

The State Department denied newspaper reports that Turkey has pledged to block U.S. use of Turkish bases if war breaks out in the Middle East.

No U.S. Bases

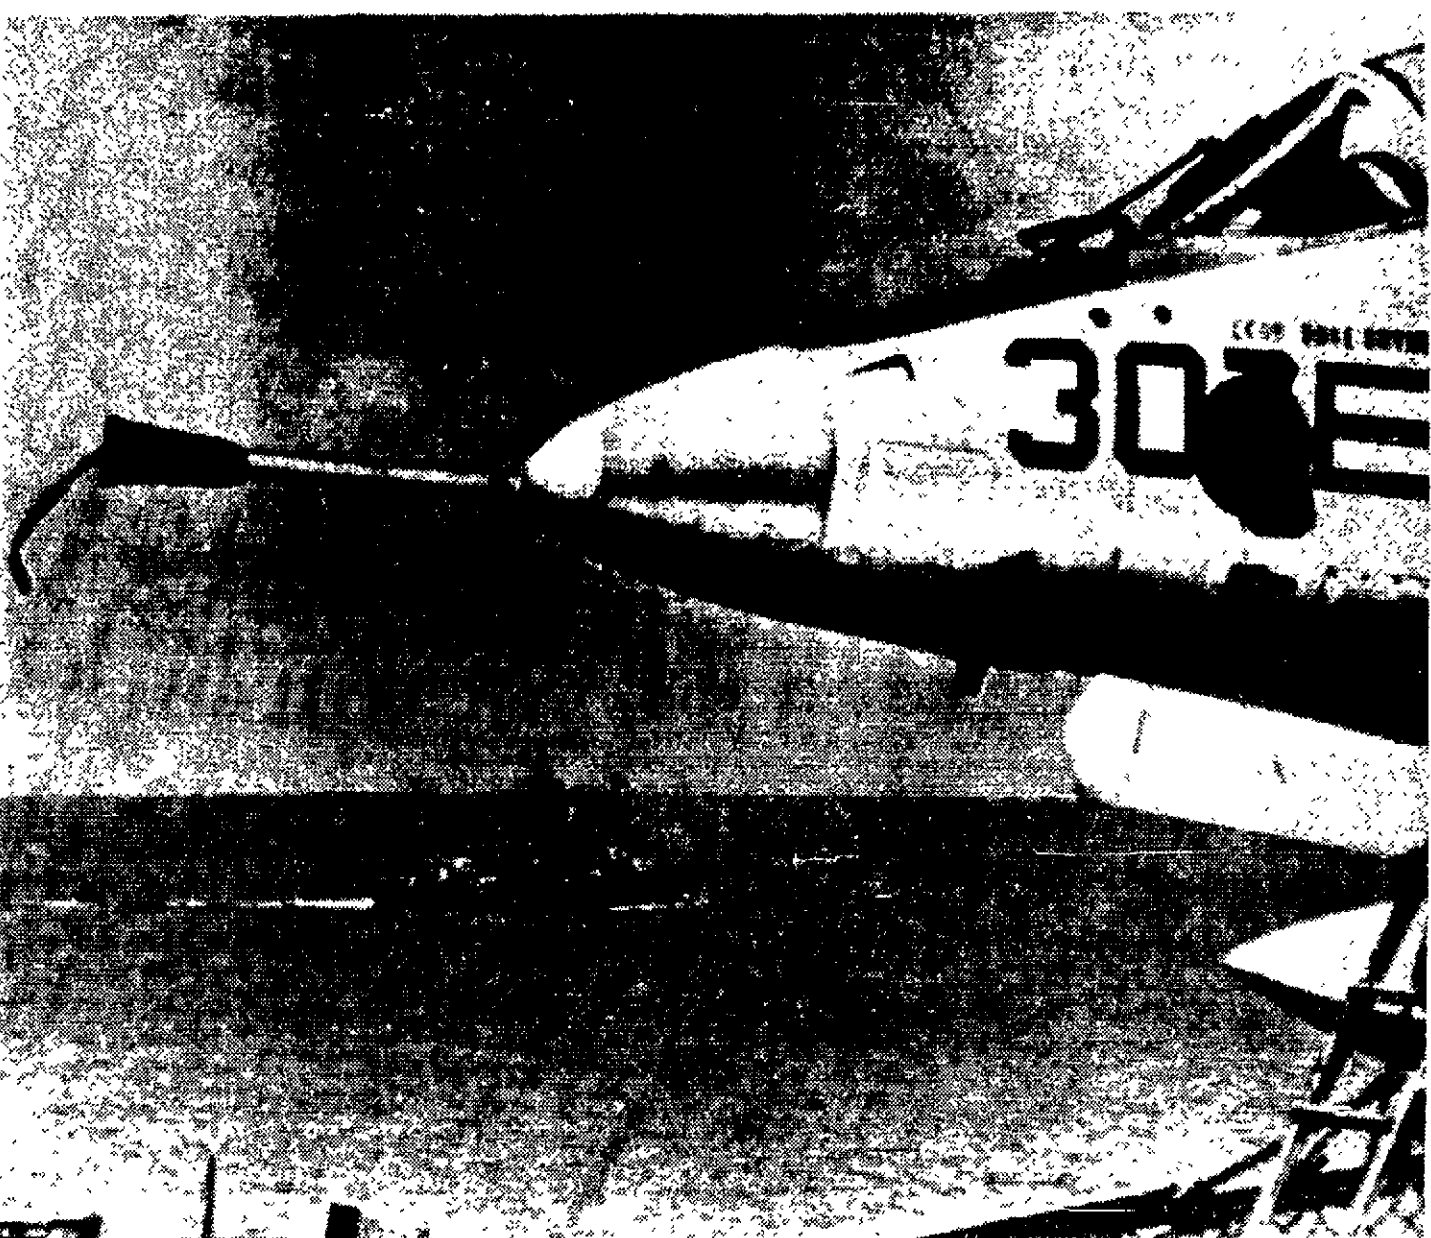

Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said the question hadn't arisen. He said there are no U.S. bases in Turkey, but acknowledged some Turkish facilities are available to the United States under various agreements.

Other U.S. officials said privately U.S. involvement in the Middle East would not require use of Turkish bases.

McCloskey also refused to discuss the Egyptian-Jordanian mutual defense pact — solemnized at a meeting Tuesday of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Jordan's King Hussein, long-time foes.

Six Indicted On Charges of Stock Rigging

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Chicagoans and two New Yorkers were indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy and price rigging of stock of Pentron Electronics Corp. on the American Stock Exchange last year.

Among those indicted was Osborn Andreas, 63, of Chicago, former board chairman and treasurer of Pentron. The firm is based at Hammond, Ind., but was located previously in Chicago.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said the defendants artificially lifted the price of Pentron stock and created the picture of an active market to promote sales of about 320,000 shares in February, March and April of 1966.

Agreed to Sell

The government charged that four of the defendants agreed to sell 144,000 shares at $3 for Andreas, who in turn arranged for them to buy 175,000 shares at $2 from a trust formed for the children of Andreas.

The Associated Press had reported last weekend that the government was investigating the case and that indictments were expected shortly.

Spectacular Naval Shelling Wrecks Guerrilla Stronghold

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — An American armored force charged today into a huge guerrilla fortress uncovered on the South Vietnamese coast by one of the war's most spectacularly successful naval bombardments.

The coastal action was announced as the U.S. Command reported the highest American casualties of the war, the greatest monthly loss of U.S. planes in raids over North Vietnam and a record monthly toll of North Vietnamese MIGs.

U.S. casualties last week totaled 2,941—313 killed, 2,616 wounded and 12 missing or captured. The command said 36 U.S. warplanes were lost over North Vietnam during May, three more than the previous high last July, while a record 27 Communist jets were shot down in dogfights during the month.

The naval bombardment took place in Quang Ngai Province—one of the most firmly held Viet Cong strong points in the country—and uncovered a vast complex of bunkers, trenches and fortifications.

Back a Holocaust

Firing 300 rounds of 5-inch rockets a minute, a Navy rocket ship opened up on the coastal area Wednesday. Within minutes the beach was a holocaust and it was evident the rocket ship had unearthed a major Red fortress.

Shattering secondary explosions began to rise from ammunition stores hidden in the bunkers. One massive explosion ripped a crater 30 feet across.

The screaming rockets, which landed in clustered bursts of 10, ripped open 77 Communist bunkers and uncovered and partially collapsed almost a mile of twisted trenches.

Helicopters zipping over the smoldering field counted only five bodies, but the armored

Change Proposed In Lobbying Law

MADISON (AP) — A bill to change Wisconsin's lobby laws to allow legislators to accept food and travel expenses from lobbyists was introduced Wednesday in the Assembly.

The bill requires only that lobbyists file reports of expenses with the secretary of state. The lobbyists would also have to swear no legislation was discussed with lawmakers involved in the expenses.

"It's an attempt to bring everything above the table," said Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca, author of the bill.

Went Along With Ritual

Lieutenant's Drinking Death Stirs Investigation in Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army paratrooper drinking ritual ended in the death of a youthful, nondrinking lieutenant, who according to a coroner's report suffocated in his own vomit after swilling the equivalent of 17 ounces of vodka.

Now the Army is urging future close supervision over the use of alcohol in such military rituals, according to a statement today from Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff. It mentioned no ban.

They called the mid-April death of Lt. Ronald Greer Reeves, 23, accidental, untimely and a personal loss to all who knew him.

But Resor and Johnson said such functions "serve a useful role in developing esprit and a sense of unity within military units." They added the ceremonies "must never become a source of embarrassment to the individual or endanger his well-being."

And Brig. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, commander at Ft. Bragg, N.C., where Reeves was stationed, said

Wednesday his office would have to approve before future such functions could be held there.

Reeves, a Clemson University graduate, was carried from a so-called prop blast ritual the night of April 14 at the 82nd Airborne Division's headquarters at Ft. Bragg.

His body was found the following morning in the tourist home where he lived.

Cumberland County Coroner Alth Clark held a five-hour inquest into the affair and ruled Reeves died an accidental death.

No probable cause for criminal charges was found, the report showed. An autopsy performed by an Army pathologist showed Reeves' body contained a blood-alcohol content of 327 milligrams per gram of blood.

At the inquest, officers present at the prop blast testified that no one invited to the function need attend. And the Resor-Johnson statement said: "Under no circumstances should an individual be penalized or ridiculed in any way for declining to participate in such functions."

The Washington Post, which published the story of Reeves' death in today's editions, said attendance at prop blasts is ordered on a document closely resembling an official military order. The Post said those who fail to attend — or refuse to drink a vodka-champagne concoction from a so-called blast cup — hurt their chances for promotion.

The Post said the story of Reeves' death was brought to its attention by relatives of other paratroop officers at Ft. Bragg who fear for their health.

At the ceremony, the Post quoted unidentified witnesses as saying the initiates are required to drink while doing

Beware of Rackets in Home Study Courses

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Not long ago, a trio of gypsies peddled correspondence courses in subjects ranging from jet engine mechanics to missile design drafting at costs up to $660 with guarantees of jobs with leading U. S. corporations. The "school" failed to place a single student in any paying job. Total public loss: an estimated $2 million.

In another instance, worthless correspondence courses in practical nursing were sold to women high school dropouts of limited intelligence. One woman, a $30 a week laundress who took the course at considerable financial sacrifice, landed a job in a third-rate nursing home working 12 hours a day, 6 days a week, — at a salary of $31.25. Total take by this team over a 10-year period: about $3 million.

71-Year-Old Woman

In a third scheme, it turned out that the exact same "training course," supposedly for the U. S. Civil Service, was being sold to different individuals wanting to become a law enforcement officer, a government meat inspector and a park ranger. Victims of this gyp included a 71-year-old woman who was already past compulsory civil service retirement age, and the total loss to the public amounted to nearly $1 million.

As legitimate, worthwhile home study courses have gone into a record boom, the racketeering fringe has expanded too. Just in the past three years, reports chief Postal Inspector Henry B. Montague, the number of fraudulent home study operations has quadrupled. At last count, at least one in 10 correspondence schools was granting unearned degrees. Among the many areas in which the gypsies are "specializing" today: electronics, operation of heavy equipment, real estate appraisal, jet airplane mechanics and civil service training.

Sylvia Porter

No Guarantees

If you are among the record 5,000,000 Americans who will this year enroll in some course of home study, how can you tell the worthwhile home study program from the worthless and often exorbitantly priced one? Here are valuable guidelines from the National Home Study Council in Washington:

—NO legitimate correspondence school will or can guarantee a job after completion of its course.

—NO accredited college or university grants degrees based on home study alone and nobody can qualify as a practical nurse through correspondence study alone.

—Be suspicious if a correspondence school uses a high-paying job opportunity as a come-on in an advertisement and this is followed by a high-pressure salesman who comes to your door to inform you that further training is needed to fulfill the job requirements.

Finally, you can get a list of accredited, reputable home study schools from the National Home Study Council in Washington. In the case of correspondence courses offered by colleges and universities, a similar list is available from the National University Extension Association at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. Keloid Is Scar Tissue That Grows Too Large

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a keloid. Our 20-year-old son had a small mole removed from the belt line and immediately went into the Navy. A keloid formed. They operated but another formed. It looks terrible and we are worried.

Dr. Molner

How dangerous is it? Could it turn malignant? Is there anything we can do about it? — Mrs. C.E.R.

When a wound — whether from a surgical incision or injury — heals, it does so by fibrous tissue growing into the area.

It may be red or purple for several months, but the color fades, and for most of us the scar is reasonably flat.

In other persons, the scar may be thickened and raised. It may be tender. It often is a cosmetic problem — doesn't look good.

Some of these are keloids. Others are called hypertrophic (thick) scars.

It's difficult to distinguish between them, except that the keloid apparently has more closely-knit fibrous tissue.

A keloid is thought to result, or at least be influenced, by tension on the wound or a slight infection. However, some people are keloid formers, so some element of skin texture appears to be present, too.

For this reason removal of the raised tissue is rarely effective, because another one is likely to form.

It also has been frequently noted that keloids are more likely to form in individuals with dark complexions, and also more often in young people (under 20).

Since there is much to learn about keloids, finding treatment has been pretty much an experimental matter. Many have been tried: low dose X-ray, ultra-sound, carbon dioxide snow, steroids (cortisone-type drugs) and others.

Favorable results have been reported from the injection of a steroid into the keloid tissues. One to three injections at three-week intervals have been reported to shrink the keloid, or at least reduce it materially in size. The process is painful so it is done under a local anesthetic. I am not aware of any indication that keloids become malignant.

Incidentally, distinguishing, if possible, between a keloid and a hypertrophic scar can be significant because the hypertrophic one frequently becomes smaller with time; a keloid does not.

Dear Dr. Molner: I eat cooked oatmeal every morning but do not like it, but have found by experience that I like raw oats. Are they safe to eat? — F.J.D.

If you mean raw oatmeal, the food value is still there, and I see no harm in eating it. But if you mean raw oats that have not been rolled or the husks removed, I'll have to give you a different answer. Your digestive system might not break down the husks, and you would lose the food value of the grain inside. Also the rough husks might be irritating.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is Reiter's syndrome? Is it serious? How is it treated? — B.O.R.

A syndrome is a group of symptoms constituting a disease condition. Reiter's syndrome is a combination of arthritis, conjunctivitis (inflammation of the eyelids) and inflammation of the urethra (urinary tract).

The cause is not known. However, best treatment is with ACTH or cortisone derivatives, and the outlook for complete cure is favorable. (Antibiotics appear not to be effective.)

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for your copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. (Copyright 1967)

U.S., Soviet Envoys May Meet on Crisis

Goldberg Offers U.N. Resolution On Thant Appeal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassadors Arthur J. Goldberg of the United States and Nikolai T. Fedorenko of the Soviet Union are expected to confer on a U.S. resolution by which the U.N. Security Council could call for all-around restraint in the Middle East crisis.

Danish ambassador Hans R. Tabor, June president of the 15-nation council, is understood to have set up the conference with a view to the council's voting at its meeting Friday.

Attention was focused on a resolution Goldberg introduced Wednesday at the council's fifth meeting on the crisis, the last under the president for May, Chinese National Ambassador Liu Chieh.

Fedorenko refused to consult on a resolution while Liu was president. His government recognizes Communist China and he contends that Liu has no right to sit on the council.

Some diplomats hoped that Goldberg and Fedorenko together could agree on wording that would win general approval in the council. Others doubted that the council could adopt a resolution.

A few figured that the U.S. resolution might get the necessary nine-vote majority. But they said the Soviet Union would veto it if Egypt so desired.

Objects to Appeal

Delegates calculated that another resolution that Egypt put in blaming Israel for the crisis, could not get more than five or six votes. They said Egypt objected to certain implications in an alternative "appeal" resolution especially tailored to win her support, which Africans and Asians on the council were drafting on the basis of a paper written by India.

The drafts were all based on Secretary-General U Thant's report of last Saturday in which he urged "all the parties concerned to exercise special restraint, to forego belligerence and to avoid all other actions which could increase tension," while the council dealt with problems underlying the crisis.

The Indian draft picked up most of the language of Thant's appeal but omitted "forego belligerence," because Egypt claims belligerent rights as the basis of its recently announced blockade against Israeli shipping through the Strait of Tiran, the way between the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba on which Israel's port of Elath is situated.

Reproduces Language

The U.S. resolution reproduced all of Thant's language but soft pedaled it, taking some of the curse off of "foregoing belligerence," by relegating it to an introductory clause.

The American resolution called on "all the parties concerned as a first step to comply with the secretary-general's appeal;" encouraged "the immediate pursuit of international diplomacy" to pacify the situation and seek solutions; and marked the issue for "urgent and continuous review" by the council.

Goldberg told the council that all he proposed was "to ensure a cooling-off period in the Near East without prejudice to the ultimate rights or claims of any party."

Forego Blockade

But he said Monday that "foregoing belligerence must mean foregoing any blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba during the breathing spell requested by the secretary-general."

Arab diplomats said privately that if that was his interpretation of the same phrase in his resolution, they must oppose the resolution.

The only one to comment in the council, Iraqi Foreign Minister Adnan Pachachi, said he did not believe the U.S. resolution "fully conforms with the intent," of Thant's report but would wait for Goldberg to explain it before giving his final view.

$220 in Cash In Circulation For Each Person

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's more proof of growing American affluence.

The Treasury Department said today there was $220.16 cash in circulation for every man, woman and child in the nation as of April 30.

That wasn't a record—the per capita high was $225.59 last December when the Christmas season created a heavy demand for cash—but the trend is again upward.

Total currency and coin in circulation as of April 30 was $43.7 billion.

There was $32.1 billion in circulation on June 30, 1960, before the recent business boom began. That was $177.47 per capita.

er any unilateral closing of the Gulf of Aqaba an act of belligerence.

Brown said his government is seeking a clear declaration from the international maritime community that "the Gulf of Aqaba is an international waterway in which and through which vessels of all nations have the right of passage."

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar reported that Egypt was prepared to use force to back up the right it claims to inspect all commercial ships passing from the Red Sea through the Strait of Tiran into the Gulf of Aqaba.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson refused to tell Commons what he would do if Egypt tried to bar any British ships from the gulf. But he repeated an assurance by Brown that arrangements were being made to meet such a situation.

With a British naval buildup already reported around Aden, at the southern end of the Red Sea, the British aircraft carrier Hermes was recalled to Aden because of the crisis. She had been en route to the Far East.

Growing Unity

The arrival in Egypt of forces from other Arab nations added little numerically to the 80,000 Egyptian troops Nasser has concentrated in the Sinai Peninsula on Israel's southwest border. But the arrivals underlined the growing Arab unity Nasser is forging.

An advance unit of the Iraqi army arrived by plane in Egypt Wednesday, and more Iraqi troops were scheduled to arrive today. Among them was the son of Iraqi President Abdul Rahman Aref, a young lieutenant.

Cairo Radio said an army contingent from Kuwait also arrived in Egypt.

In Israel, mobilization of armed forces left a manpower shortage and the government extended the work week from 47 hours to a maximum of 71.

Israel's three religious political parties formed a coalition of their 16 members in the Knesset—parliament—and called for creation of a broadly based "emergency cabinet" including opposition members. Many leading Israeli politicians were urging Premier Levi Eshkol to relinquish the post of defense minister and give it to Gen. Moshe Dayan or Gen. Yigal Alon, both former army chiefs of staff.

Complaints of Jamming

M16 Called Many Names by Marines

By JOHN LENGEL
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The M16 is called the "little black rifle" by the Viet Cong and all sorts of names by some U.S. Marines.

Controversy surrounds the rifle, for two years the standard firearm in the U.S. Army in Vietnam but adopted by the Marines only three months ago.

"I'd rather have an air rifle," "We'd be better off with the M14." So say some of the Marines whose lives may depend on the M16.

Others praise it as excellent. Marine sergeants, lieutenants and generals — and even many in the ranks — agree the problem will wither away with proper care of the rifle, more training time, and just plain living with it.

More Ammunition
The M16 is four pounds lighter than the 11-pound M14. Thus a soldier can carry more ammunition. It is fired singly or automatically, giving every rifleman the increased fire of a light machine gun.

But sometimes a cartridge gets stuck in the chamber, making it impossible to fire the next round.

After the vicious hill fighting near Khe Sanh early last month several Marines complained their M16s jammed at critical moments.

The M16 will jam, Marine experts say, if corrosion on the sides of a cartridge glues a shell in the chamber. Too much cleaning oil, or a little dust, also are bad.

Unnerving Procedure
When a shell is jammed the extractor hook which grabs the cartridge rim will not pull the shell out. The only way the barrel can be cleared is to assemble a cleaning rod, shove it down the muzzle, and ram the cartridge out — an unnerving sequence in combat.

Marine spokesmen, including the outgoing Marine commander in Vietnam, Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, says the problem would be solved if Marines would clean their M16s properly. A jammed gun is most often the result of a Marine "not doing what he is supposed to do," Walt told reporters.

From time to time sergeants can be seen inspecting a Marine's weapon and sometimes dressing him down. One veteran, who says he has had no trouble, adds that the Leathernecks had only one or two days to learn the M16 in Vietnam whereas they trained for months as recruits with the M14.

M16 Training
Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., the Marine commandant, says principles involving the older rifles apply also to the M16 and that Marines get 10½ hours of training the M16 before they come to Vietnam.

Greene told Washington reporters recently that the M16 has proved to be reliable and hard-hitting. He described as faulty any impression that the Marine Corps is dissatisfied with it.

A three-man group from the House Armed Services Committee is coming to Vietnam to check into various reports about the weapon.

A captain here said his company had no trouble with the weapon in two months of combat. An officer who was at Khe Sanh says the fight would have been impossible without the M16s automatic firing option and the extra ammunition.

Extensive Use
Another school of thought contends that when the rifle has been used extensively, it will be broken in and less likely to jam. One Army adviser, however, said: "I got mine third-hand and the dam thing still jams on me. It's a fine weapon in every respect if it would not jam."

Observers of Army units tend to agree that the rifle improves with age and that when a jam occurs the weapon has not been cared for.

The M1 and the M14, semiautomatics fired singly, were sum-M14." So say some of the Marines whose lives may depend on the M16.

A gunnery sergeant had this to say: "Hell, I know men who didn't want to give up the Springfield bolt action for the M1."

strenuous exercises. Then they face a board of about five officers and drink from the blast cup while the board counts off the time they hold the cups to their mouths.

The Post said witnesses reported Reeves drank from the cup—a 105mm artillery shell—three times, then passed out.

At the inquest into Reeves' death, his uncle, Dr. J. M. Bennett, a psychiatrist, asked: "What would cause this boy, who did not like alcohol, in four months to change his personality so that he would drink enough to kill him? Why are the effects of esprit de corps of the U.S. Army such that cause this?"

The Post quoted Reeves' mother, Mrs. I. G. Reeves of Charleston, S.C., as saying, "What is past is not past. Somebody somewhere is responsible for making a poor judgment. We want to see this doesn't happen to another boy ever again."

Order to be in Milwaukee

Nuns to Try Experiment With Community Living

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Twenty nuns of the Roman Catholic order of Daughters of the Cross will start leaving their Shreveport convent soon to begin an experimental religious community in Wisconsin.

"What we are doing has the stamp of approval of the Church," Sister Mary Michael, a spokesman for the nuns, said. "We still have a commitment to live a religious life but we feel we will be more effective in this unstructured type of life."

She said they would wear modern dress and use their legal names. They will live in groups of five or more in Milwaukee apartments and will divide their earnings among the group. No financial support will be provided by the Catholic Church.

Maximum Effectiveness
"We feel that under the present form of religious life, we can't be optimally effective to the needs of today's world. We feel that in living together in smaller groups we will be freer to administer to the needs of the people," Sister Mary Michael said.

She said Milwaukee was chosen because the offers of teaching jobs came from there, and six of the sisters plan to complete their education at the University of Marquette and at Alverno College, both in Milwaukee. All the sisters making the move are Southern girls, and they plan eventually to return to the South, Sister Mary Michael said.

Mother Superior John Roberta of the Daughters of the Cross convent issued a statement after the nuns' announcement.

"In the history of the Church different groups within congregations have felt that they wish to do other types of work, that God is asking them to do other expressions of work than that to which their order is dedicated," she said.

"The nuns, through the mind of the Church, are answering the request of Vatican II (second Vatican Council) to go out and live a different type of religious life other than the structure of the Daughters of the Cross now has. This is their desire."

The group members range in age from 24 to 54 and it includes one member who has been a nun for 37 years and six who

Copters Complete First Transatlantic Nonstop Crossing

PARIS (AP) — Two U.S. helicopters today made history's first nonstop helicopter flight across the Atlantic Ocean, flying 4,270 miles in 30 hours and 48 minutes.

The two Sikorsky HH3E Sea King helicopters of the U.S. Air Force Air Rescue Service were refueled in the air nine times by a C130 tanker plane during their flight from the New York Naval Air Station in Brooklyn to Le Bourget Airport in Paris.

The flight was staged as part of the 27th Paris Air and Space Show.

Each of the huge helicopters — of the type used for rescue work in Vietnam — had a five-man crew.

The crews said they would have been able to make the flight in considerably less time if they had not encountered headwinds and bad weather they had to avoid.

the sisters said, "We take vows under two aspects: private vows to God, public vows to the church. We are giving up the public aspect of the vows, not the commitment to God."

Although the group is the first of this order to try such an experiment, and one of the largest groups to leave a single congregation for such a purpose, other nuns have established experimental programs in Milwaukee, Oklahoma City and Connecticut, as well as other sections of the United States.

have not professed their final vows.

Their departure will leave the Shreveport-based order with about 60 nuns.

Sister Mary Michael said several of the nuns have applied for jobs in Milwaukee public schools, others will teach in parochial schools or universities and others will pursue other fields of work.

Educational Emphasis
She said the group will not necessarily live in the poor sections of town, for "we are educators and feel that our impact is in the educational field. We are not going to Milwaukee just to work with the poor."

Commenting on the dispensation from the vows of chastity, poverty and obedience, which a nun is required to take, one of

Hats and Furs Given Preview in Cloak and Dagger Setting

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

There were cozy little corners and secluded booths, just big enough for two, when Everitt Hat Co. and John Boughton Furs showed their fall lines to the group of fashion reporters assembled for Heritage-Milwaukee recently. The setting was International Exports Ltd., a club with more than a little of the James Bond flavor in its decor and use of a password for admittance.

The club, with its entrance on an alley, takes its cue from the old spy retreats that provided a 'safe house' from the threat of international discovery.

The Suit and Coat Above were styled by John Boughton for e. c. Boughton and photographed at the entrance to International Exports, Ltd. The suit at left has a safari jacket of natural Lakoda (sheared Alaska fur seal) with V epaulets at the shoulders. The coat, of the same fur, has the same fur button trimmed epaulets and matching angled pocket flaps. The collar is cut mandarin style, with lapels. (Below, also outside the 'safe house', is a model in a coat of Tibet lamb, with leather binding.

John Boughton Fur Show Unveils Originality, Taste

John Boughton struck a responsive chord in national fashion press representatives when he showed his fall fur designs at International Exports, Ltd. during Heritage-Milwaukee. The young man takes an entirely modern approach to fur design, fashioning one unlined coat entirely of tiny triangles of leopard, riveted together at the corners. As is, he recommends it for apres swim. With linings of varied colors it would go formal or daytime, or could become an entire wardrobe of coats with linings of crimson, gold or sedate black.

That particular design and treatment were only the start of this fur line, however. Mr. Boughton also took note of the fashion trends in every phase of life and worked them into his own line. A natural Alaskan seal safari jacket has gold chain epaulettes and a low chain back belt. The model carried matching luggage.

Unusual furs were employed in the utmost of styling skill. Weasel had the look of far more elegant fur. French rabbit was closely sheared, then stenciled into a black and white plaid design, giving the look of exquisite fabric. The coat was lined in apricot.

A marmot man's coat was stenciled in a herringbone pattern and worn with a cossack hat. Tibet lamb, with its long, fringed look, was worked with vinyl in horizontal stripes for a less bulky look. Kalgan lamb in beige was given new dimension by insets of French canvas horsebands at the belt and cuffs.

For the young set, the designer went psychedelic, letting his styles become subtle and amusing. One was a broadtail smoking suit in black, with a fabric stripe on the trousers. His white mink jacket was worn with a chain link skirt. Canadian sable was paired with chain mail.

Mink Shades
There was pure elegance too. For instance, four colors of mink were combined in the same coat, with the garment reversing to a raincoat. A natural bull raincoat has a detachable hood and is styled with a wide flare at the bottom. Calf was done in a checkerboard pattern, with gold metal discs making a pattern on the smooth leather.

In narrating his own show, Mr. Boughton said that what is shown at Heritage-Milwaukee represents the latest in techniques all over the world. Women everywhere want an international look, so that they can leave Milwaukee in the morning and be perfectly dressed in London or Paris that evening.

Mr. Boughton comes to fur design naturally. He had not yet been born in 1926 when his father, E. C. Boughton, a chemist at a Milwaukee meat packing plant, came upon the notion that the skins of unborn calves would be of finer quality than the regular skins then used. He made an experimental jacket for his wife, and the success of that venture led him two years later to establish the Log Cabin Fur Company. A number of moves preceded the firm's present location in Thiensville at a restored country estate called Willowbrook.

John Boughton joined the business in 1954, when his father was president of the Master Furriers Guild of America. His mother operates her own Boutique, called the El Cetera Shop.

John Boughton Furs, now distributed nationally and internationally through New York and Paris, were introduced in his first collection in July 1966, in Willowbrook. This is his first year in Heritage-Milwaukee.

A Camel Orlon Knit with the yarn twisted around the crown and used for a knotted chin tie was shown by a model at the entrance to the 'safe house' arsenal, where special weapons were stored. The hat at right, also by Everitt Hat Co. and shown during Heritage-Milwaukee, is of red acrylic crown and brown knit brim, with upturned sides and a gold metallic band circling the crown.

Everitt Hats Brimful of Fashion News

Everitt Hat Co. models fitted into the show locale perfectly when they presented the firm's fall line. Gold and silver trench coats and often boots and dark glasses added to the air of subterfuge set by International Imports Ltd.

The firm, founded in Milwaukee in 1916, presented three lines for fall — the regular hat for women, a 'Miss Everitt' for the 3 to 14 age girl, and a new 'Mr. Allenn.' All are knitted of man made fibers.

Everitt today is noted for its meeting of the needs of our casual American life.

The 'edge to edge' sewing method used by Everitt was developed 20 years ago. Their soft and expert shaping has made them the ideal complement to sweaters, knits and sport clothes. They also pack well for the traveler who wants to take along several styles and colors with a minimum of luggage.

To accomplish individual styling, Everitt designers shape their creations by hand rather than the usual commercial 'blockmaker'. The shape is then copied in plaster of Paris, transferred to molds and reproduced in aluminum, from which the new lines take permanent shape.

Everitt kept the pace of today in showing metallics and psychedelics. The metallics were done in yarns woven

League, Hydrologist View Problem Areas in County

Gerald Paul, hydrologist working with the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission gave the Appleton League of Women Voters a look at sanitary conditions in Outagamie County recently. Mr. Paul is conducting a survey, and possible sanitary deficiencies in the county, and will offer basic data to assist in the development of county or regional health programs.

Appleton League of Women Voters presented a study on health needs to the Outagamie County Board in December. After the report was referred to the Health, Education and Institutions Committee, the county hired Mr. Paul to make further studies. League has cooperated with the hydrologist during his own survey of county needs. Appleton League, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Verner Haag of the health committee, supports the establishment of a full-time county health department.

Returning Soldier's Wife Places Selfish Interests Over Family's

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that you have made it clear that the wife of a soldier in Vietnam is not obligated to share her husband's letters with her mother-in-law, please settle another problem.
 My brother will be returning from Vietnam within 40 days.

We live in a large city which is a debarkation point. This means he will be flying direct. His wife has asked me to instruct my parents not to go to the airport to meet him. She wants to meet him with the children and asks that no one else be present to witness the highly charged emotional experience. She says they will "go home as a family" for a few hours, and call when they

Dear Denver: Your sister-in-law sounds adorable. I hope you will refuse to be a party to her selfishness. If she wants to behave like a spoiled brat tell her to do her own dirty work.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the Bronxville female presented a fairly solid case for "The Other Woman."

She insisted that "the other woman" is not always a tramp and listed among her dazzling credentials a master's degree from Columbia University and a position which pays her $200 a week.

One of her principal virtues, she boasted, was a keen appreciation for life and the good things it has to offer. This, she said, is what attracted the man whose wife's philosophy was "Life is a dung heap."

I would like to inquire why a woman with so much on the ball would settle for a married man. Surely a bright, attractive, successful, unattached female with a keen appreciation for life, would be a highly desirable candidate for marriage. Why is she content with a back-alley relationship. She accused her playmate's wife of having a screw loose. Wouldn't you say she has a similar problem? — Spy Glass

Dear Spy: I would, indeed. Women who become involved with married men are frequently self-destructive, martyr types. Any gal who finds herself in this spot more than once should face up to this possibility.

DEAR ANN: There is a fad going around school. One student plays like he is the judge and he "marries" a couple who like each other a lot.

The couple that pretends they are getting married invites some of their best friends to the "ceremony" and then the couple kisses at the end and everyone congratulates them. Most of these "marriages" take place right after school, by the locker, or during lunch, in a corner of the lunch room.

A guy who sits next to me in many of my classes has asked me if I would like to marry him in one of these play ceremonies. It's just fun and doesn't mean anything, but I don't know if I want to go that far even for a joke. What do you think? — Unwed At 13

Dear Unwed: You're in a tough spot — too old to play house for fun and too young to get married for real. My advice is to pass up the wedding ceremony and let "the bridegroom" buy you an ice cream cone instead.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

playing a hand that seemed routine. Sometimes the other fellow's idea is an improvement on your own.

When this hand was played in a recent tournament the play was the same at all tables but one. West led the deuce of diamonds, and dummy's queen forced out the ace. East returned the ten of hearts, and the defenders then continued hearts until dummy ruffed the third round.

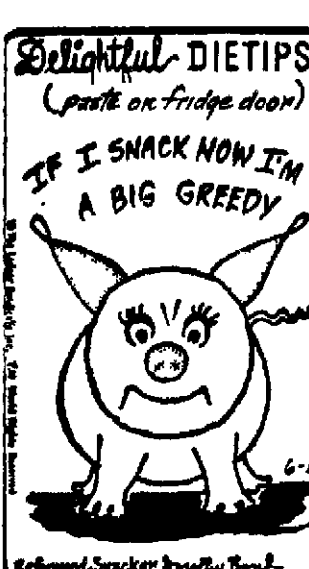

Now South had to lose a trump trick since with only two trumps in the dummy he could not pick up West's K-X-X of trumps. Down one.

So it went at all tables but one. There the South player kept a handful of dust in his pocket to throw in the eyes of his opponents. He threw the dust this time by playing the seven of diamonds from the dummy at the first trick.

Misleads Lead
East thought longingly of playing the ten of diamonds at the first trick but was afraid that his partner had led fourth-best from 10-x-x-x and that South held the singleton jack. East went up with the ace of diamonds after deep thought, and South naturally played his low diamond.

Now East had second thoughts about the nature of his partner's opening lead. The deuce is sometimes led from length, but it may instead be a singleton. It began to look to East as though South surely had the jack of diamonds for his play of the low diamond from dummy. It was possible that West had led the deuce of diamonds from 9-3-2 but it seemed more likely that the deuce had been a singleton.

East therefore returned a diamond, and South easily took twelve tricks. The dust brought in three tricks.

Women's Clubs Of 7th District To Attend Forum

Members of the seventh district Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs will attend the 11th annual Adult Education Forum, 'Values and Viewpoints', June 12 to 14 at the UW Wisconsin Center, Madison. It is sponsored by the UW Extension in cooperation with the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs.

The seventh district includes Langlade, Marathon, Shawano, Wood, Portage, Waupaca, Adams, Waushara, Marquette and Green Lake counties. Women in the district registering for the forum will be eligible for a 24-inch ceramic Christmas tree made by Mrs. George McCauley, Clintonville, seventh district director and state treasurer.

Registration for the six-session forum will begin at 1 p.m. June 12. Groups will discuss 'Science — The Casual Factor', 'Values and Society' that day. The Wisconsin Idea The-

Well Planned Snacks, Sweets Add Nutrition

Food habits have changed considerably in the last 50 years, says Joan Reid, foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Snacking, almost unheard-of in the early 1900's, represents the modern way of living.

For many people snacking has become a fourth meal in their day's calorie intake. Meetings either start or end with coffee and dessert.

Good-tasting snacks and desserts need not be empty calories. Chosen wisely, snacks can add good nutrition to the total food intake. Snack foods can be such combinations as sandwiches with a glass of milk, cheese and crackers, a dish of fruit, or a glass of fruit or vegetable juice.

Desserts made with fruit instead of sweet carbohydrates are another example, but adjust the size of each serving. Guests may prefer a smaller piece of dessert because smaller servings are more fashionable. A tiny piece of pie supplies about the same amount of energy as a larger serving of whipped low-calorie dessert.

Angel food or sponge cake served with fruit is a refreshing change for guests who prefer a light dessert, adds Miss Reid.

Later will present 'How Now, Sacred Cow?' that evening. Other discussion topics include mass media, economics, American values in international affairs, politics and the role of the university.

Registration may be made for single sessions or the entire program. Reservations for lodging may be made before Tuesday. The deadline for food reservations is June 8.

Teachers College Class of '17 Comes Home for Reunion

Sister Mary Therese, Milwaukee, and Sister Bernard, at St. Therese in Appleton, were among 50-year graduates of Outagamie County Teachers College who renewed old friendships at the Saturday reunion at Hyland House, Kaukauna. Above, they look at a directory of classmates and their addresses. Below, Mrs. Florence Keating Spoerl and Miss Vivian Bottrell are pictured at the dinner, at which 16 of 44 graduates were marked 'present'. At right, Mrs. Mary Heenan Gilles, one of the class members who is still teaching, is shown at the evening dinner.

Some hadn't seen each other for 50 years, and there was lots of catching up to do. No one was silent very long Saturday evening as the Outagamie County Teachers College Class of 1917 met for its 50-year reunion. The get-together was held at Hyland House, Kaukauna.

Of the 44 who were graduated on June 20, 1917, 16 class members and a former teacher attended the dinner. During the last 50 years, 13 class members have died. Nine class of '17 graduates are still teaching. Mrs. Laura Lau Canavan teaches gifted children in Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. Bert Van Abel, Green Bay, the former Mary Campbell, retired youngsters in Brown County.

Attending the program were Miss Vivian Bottrell, Appleton; Dr. Richard C. Bubolz, Chicago; Mrs. Van Abel; Mrs. Mary Heenan Gilles, Appleton; Mrs. Phoebe Heenan Grisbach, Appleton; Mrs. Irene Heimke Krueger, Kaukauna; Mrs. Florence Keating Spoerl, Appleton; Sister M. Bernard, Appleton, the former Cecelia Killian; Mrs. Stella Konieczny Bublit, Bonduel; Mrs. Canavan, Sacramento; Mrs. Lillie Loefer Haese, Forest Junction; Miss Clara Meulemans, Wrightstown; Mrs. Vida Nickel Berry, Green Bay; Mrs. Helen Vandenberg Deering, Kaukauna; Sister Mary Beatrice, R. S. M., Milwaukee, the former Agnes Van Hoof, and Mrs. Anna Wickesberg Wehrman, Elkhart Lake.

Former Teacher

Mrs. Florette Zuehlke Guenther, Menasha, a former home economics teacher at the school, also attended the reunion. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gordon represented the college, where Mr. Gordon is principal.

Many of those who came to the reunion brought family members to meet old friends. Husbands and daughters were among those caught up in the reminiscing, part of which included looking at pictures, graduation programs and prized report cards.

When the 44 members of the Class of 1917 stepped up for their diplomas, the U. S. involvement in World War I was only two months old. The class motto, "Be Prepared", took note of war preparations, and the song, put to the melody of "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding," made reference to young men leaving for war. Mrs. Krueger comments that we've been at war almost ever since.

New Building

The '17 class was the first to be graduated from the new school building. That spring the school had moved from an old one-story building on the south side of Kaukauna, to a new campus site on a hill on the north side. All was recalled during the reunion, as were the class play, "Back to the Farm", basketball teams and former teachers and friends.

Other class members still teaching today are Sister Bernard, Sister Beatrice, Mrs. Gilles, Mrs. Griesbach, Mrs. Spoerl, and Mrs. Deering, all in parochial schools, and Miss Meulemans, in Brown County.

Many graduates went on to earn degrees in higher education or to success in the business world. Dr. Bubolz heads a clinic in Chicago and has a 1,000 acre farm in Illinois.

Few Missing

Programs and a list of graduates and addresses were compiled by Mrs. Griesbach and Sister Bernard. The only ones unable to be contacted were Robert Feldschmidt and Jessie Otis, formerly of the Hortonville area; Gertrude Laurish, Sarasota, Fla., and Olive Collins, Baldwin Park, Calif.

Unusual experiences by class members were recounted, among them Sister Beatrice telling of her two years in an inner core slum in Chicago.

The words for the class song, written by Mrs. Wehrman, were given a new twist by the same author, who wrote words for the anniversary song.

Mrs. Spoerl had charge of registration and acted as treasurer for the reunion. Mrs. Krueger was arrangements chairman.

Church Group Plans Banquet

The first mother-daughter banquet to be held in the new Memorial Presbyterian Church is planned at 6:15 p.m. Friday by the church Family Living Circle.

Mistress of ceremonies will be Mrs. Harold Heller. The program will consist of musical selections and Oriental tumbling and dancing.

Men of the parish will serve the beef dinner. Ticket chairmen are Mrs. Larry Carberry and Mrs. James Trever.

Parents Tell Engagement of Miss Bloedorn

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Bloedorn, 319 N. Lawe St., have announced the November 4 wedding plans of their daughter, Darlene Marie, and James R. Staples. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Staples, Milwaukee.

Miss Bloedorn, who will graduate in June from the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee,

There Was Plenty of Time for catching up at the reunion, to which members of the class of '17 brought husbands, wives and daughters. Above are Arnold Wehrman, Elkhart Lake, husband of Anna Wickesberg Wehrman, a class member; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krueger, and Dr. Richard C. Bubolz, Chicago. Mrs. Irene Heimke Krueger and Dr. Bubolz were among the class of '17 members at the reunion.

Miss Beschta, Fiance Plan July Wedding

HORTONVILLE — Miss Joan Beschta and Dennis Besaw are engaged to be married July 22. The announcement has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beschta, route 2, Hortonville. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Besaw, 1005 W. Millard St., New London.

Miss Beschta is employed by American Can Co., Neenah. Her fiance is with Bergstrom Paper Co., Neenah.

Americans to Leave Festering Nigeria

Outbreak Feared Between Rebels, Government in Breakaway Biafra

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The U.S. Embassy is making plans to begin an airlift Saturday of some 700 Americans from the breakaway eastern region of Nigeria as war threatens between the rebels and central governmental forces.

U.S. Ambassador Elbert G. Mathews advised American firms to withdraw dependents from the eastern region which its military governor, Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has declared the independent republic of Biafra.

Beginning Saturday, chartered DC4 planes will evacuate 700 elderly persons, children, pregnant women and others described as "unable to travel quickly during an emergency." Most of them will come from Port Harcourt, where about 800 of the 2,000 Americans in eastern Nigeria live. The evacuation is expected to continue for a week.

Flights Banned
The embassy has not yet obtained permission to run a daily airlift to Enugu, capital of the secessionist state. U.S. officials must negotiate with authorities of both the central and eastern governments since flights to the east from the rest of Nigeria were banned as part of the sanctions against Ojukwu's regime.

British and Italian authorities also began making arrangements to withdraw 3,000 Britons and 300 Italians who live in the 30,099-square-mile eastern territory.

The 27,300-ton British aircraft carrier Albion broke off from exercises near the Scottish coast and sailed for an "unknown destination," the British Defense ministry disclosed. There was speculation in London that it might be bound for Nigeria, if not for the Middle East.

Fighting Imminent
Diplomats said fighting appeared imminent as Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, head of the central government, began mobilizing Nigeria's armed forces.

The navy ordered officers and men on leave to report for duty and military reservists were ordered to register. Registration started in Lagos Wednesday with about 50 former servicemen heading up the line.

Gowon has been massing troops for several months in the northern region adjoining Ojukwu's area. The federal government chief has also proclaimed an embargo against eastern ports, but there has been no word of any interference with shipping, including the million tons of crude oil exported each month from the eastern port of Bonny.

Gowon has cut off eastern communications with the outside world. All of the east's international cable and radiotelephone services were routed through Lagos, and the central government pulled the plugs. Eastern bank accounts in Lagos and other cities under federal control were frozen and transfer of money to the east was banned.

Gowon notified U.N. members his government would consider recognition of Biafra an unfriendly act.

Secretary Takes Holdup Man's Toy Gun Away

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Anna Marie III, a blonde secretary, took a holdup man's toy gun away from him after he ordered her to undress so she couldn't follow him.

Miss Iff, 28, was alone in the Swiss National Tourist Office Wednesday when the robber pulled his gun and demanded money.

"Then he told me to go to the back of the office and take my clothes off so I wouldn't try to follow him."

"He grabbed my blouse when I hesitated and he forgot about his gun so I grabbed it. That's when I found out it was a toy."

"I held onto it with both hands so he couldn't get it," Howard Wilcox, 37, a clerk working in the basement, ran up into the office but the robber had fled.

Kramer Enters Innocent Plea

Accused Slayer Awaits Trial in Attack on Woman

WAUKESHA (AP) — Robert D. Kramer of Milwaukee, accused of slaying two women, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Waukesha County Court to charges involving an attack last year on a third woman.

Judge William G. Callow said Kramer, 27, probably would not be brought to trial for 30 days because of a heavy court calendar. His Milwaukee attorney, Peter J. Panos, demanded a swift trial.

Kramer, formerly of Wisconsin Rapids, is charged with armed robbery, false imprisonment and causing injury regardless of life. The charges stem from the abduction and stabbing in June, 1966 of a Sussex woman.

A few days after Kramer was named in warrants concerning the 1966 attack, he was charged with having slain two other Waukesha County women earlier this year.

A preliminary hearing on murder charges began last week, and has been continued to Friday.

Wife of RCA Executive Disappears

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A young Radio Corporation of America executive has sent frantic wires to police chiefs in three European cities asking help in finding his 26-year-old wife, who he said disappeared while touring the continent.

John Ackert of West Palm Beach told authorities Wednesday his wife, Mabelle, neither appeared in London for her flight to New York Monday nor canceled her reservation.

He said he last heard from her by a letter posted May 23 at Marseilles, France. He said a visit to Marseilles was not part of her 21-day excursion tour.

Ackert said he telephoned U.S. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., who assured him of State Department assistance in his search, and Ackert telegraphed the police chiefs of Paris, Rome and Marseilles.

Mrs. Ackert was born in Argentina and her husband said she speaks five languages.

Ackert is a personnel executive for RCA.

Unmarried Man Adopts 2nd Son

LAKE OSWEGO, Ore. (AP) — Two years ago, Tony Piazza was said to be the first single male in the United States to have adopted a child through a licensed agency.

He adopted his second son and it was approved Wednesday by Circuit Judge Jean Lewis.

"I didn't want to raise Eric alone," the 39-year-old divorced man said. "I wanted him to have a brother."

Piazza is a music teacher at his home in the day and plays the piano in a restaurant at night. He has no children from his marriage.

Anthony Eric is now 3. The new brother, Christian William, is 15 months.

Dry Conditions Make Fields Vulnerable To Fast-Spreading Fire

RHINELANDER (AP) — The State Conservation Department was busy fighting field fires Wednesday and wishing for rain.

Sub-normal precipitation accumulations since January, a department spokesman said, have made many backwoods areas vulnerable to fast-spreading flames. He called Wednesday "a real good burning day."

There have been more than 1,280 fires reported since Jan. 1, claiming about 3,800 acres, the department said.

Reduced Effectiveness Feared

Generals Want Scrutiny of Guard Unit Abolition Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-six National Guard generals have petitioned Congress to scrutinize critically a proposal to abolish 15 Guard divisions.

They contend such a move would cut down the nation's combat effectiveness "and dangerously impair the military prestige of our country in this period of international crisis."

This was disclosed as the Pentagon moved closer today to announcing its latest streamlining plan—which is virtually certain to kick up a storm in the States and on Capitol Hill.

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, gave House Armed Services Committee members a secret briefing on the proposal Wednesday.

Signing the petition, drawn up at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., were

Customers Lineup Waiting For New York Lottery Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — Tickets for the New York State lottery went on sale at 12:01 a.m. today and within minutes customers were lined up in one hotel waiting to lay out a dollar for the chance of a $250,000 return.

First to purchase a ticket from the tuxedoed salesman at the Americana Hotel was Patricia Nelson, a Bronx housewife, who said, "I know I'm not going to win, but if I do I'll probably spend it."

Forty-five minutes after the booth opened for business, the hotel had sold 171 of the green and white $1 tickets, including a number to out-of-staters who first received assurances that they were eligible to win.

Robert Goldfarb of St. Thomas, V.I. bought five tickets and gave one to a reporter. "That's good luck—an old lottery custom," he explained. "You give somebody a ticket you've bought."

Hawks, Doves Join In Support of Israel

Some of Johnson's Strongest Critics Willing to Fight Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senatorial critics and backers of President Johnson's Vietnam war course are joining forces in support of action to preserve Israel from the pincers of war-threatening Arab nations.

While any immediate solution for the crisis triggered by Egypt's closing of the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping obviously eludes them, they agree the United States has commitments it must carry out to preserve Israel's territorial integrity.

Surprisingly, some of the most vigorous critics of U.S. involvement in Vietnam are willing to go it alone in the Middle East if that is necessary to save the Jewish state.

Seek Cooperation
One of these, Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, told the Senate Wednesday it was commendable for the United States to seek cooperation from other nations to end the Middle East crisis — something he said it was too bad it didn't do in Vietnam.

But if other nations do not respond, Gruening said, this country must act alone to assemble the necessary military force to keep the Gulf of Aqaba open to all shipping.

The United States cannot stand idly by and permit its flagships to be searched by Egypt on the high seas," he said.

Commitment to Israel
"Nor can the United States stand idly by and permit Egypt to starve Israel, for the United States has definite commitments to Israel — commitments given repeatedly in no uncertain terms by presidents from President Truman on."

This contrasted with the previously expressed view of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., that the United States should make it clear in advance that it will not act alone. Stennis, who has complained that political restrictions are limiting the mili-

Postal Officials to Re-Visit Little Chute

Sen. Nelson Advises Regional Men to Expedite Site Location

Special to The Post-Crescent
WASHINGTON, D.C.—The location of the proposed new post office for the Village of Little Chute may be settled next week.

U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who visited Little Chute a week ago and was informed a problem had arisen over a possible site, said today that postal authorities from Minneapolis will make another trip to the village.

A letter advising that the senator had contacted regional postal authorities and had urged them to expedite the site location has been sent to Little Chute Postmaster Norbert Kilsdonk.

Villagers Concerned
 Nelson's action came on the heels of reports that villagers were concerned the post office project was not progressing as rapidly as expected, and the fact that regional postal officials expressed dissatisfaction with some of the proposed sites and land costs.

"There is going to have to be some give and take on both sides," was the comment of one of Senator Nelson's aides.

LeRoy Anderson, director of real estate for the regional postal office at Minneapolis, has expressed unhappiness over the two main locations at 504 and 507 Grant Avenue which village officials apparently hoped would be in the running for the site of the new post office.

In some cases the amount of available land was too expensive, postal officials reportedly informed Senator Nelson. They indicated the probable solution was to look for another site.

Look at Land

When postal officials go to Little Chute next week, according to Nelson, they will be looking for more ground for less money.

Originally, the U.S. Postal Department had some reservation about the need for a new village post office building but the project was okayed after a strong case was presented for it by Nelson and village residents.

Nelson said it was hoped to get the matter of a site resolved soon so construction could get underway.

At nearby Appleton, postal authorities are having a similar problem. An inspection team from the Minneapolis real estate division toured proposed new post office sites at Appleton last week and found them to be "over-priced."

Parish to Fete Grade Graduates At Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — The Rev. Martin Vosbeck will be celebrant of an 8 a.m. Friday mass at St. John church here for the 130 eighth grade pupils graduating from the parish school.

Father Vosbeck will address the graduates and present diplomas during exercises following the mass.

Graduates will be guests at a mass breakfast at the school gym after the exercises. A social for the graduates in the school gym is planned for 8 p.m. with parents as chaperones.

Pair Injured Slightly In Two-Car Collision

An Appleton girl and a Neenah woman were injured in a two-car accident Wednesday afternoon at N. Mason Street and W. College Avenue.

Appleton police said that Linda K. Weiss, 16, suffered a bump on the head and Helen Lloyd, 901 Henry St., Neenah, had right leg bruises. Neither person was hospitalized.

Police said the girl was in a car driven by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Weiss, 920 W. Brewster St., which was northbound on Mason when it collided with an eastbound auto driven by Frank L. Hitt, 58, 901 Henry St., Neenah. The Neenah woman was a passenger in the Hitt auto.

Appleton Man Fined $25 on Check Charge

Ronald O'Bright, 27, 4203 W. Pine St., Appleton, was fined $25 and costs Wednesday afternoon after he pleaded guilty of issuing a worthless $10 check Nov. 29 at the Treasure Island Food Store, 3305 W. College Ave.

O'Bright, who was ordered to make restitution, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

The Congregation of First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, was well represented Thursday at the groundbreaking ceremonies for the new $860,000 church which will be constructed on E. South River Street. Assisting with the ceremony are, from left, the

Another Chicago Meeting

Questions HUD Grant Delay

U. S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) says he is going to find out why Appleton's year-long application for a $1.5 million federal water grant has not been given formal approval.

It was the understanding last month that the city's request met all criteria and would be recommended for fund reservation at the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1.

However, earlier this week Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) informed Mayor George Buckley he was told questions had arisen on the merits of the city's proposed Lake Winnebago pipeline and water plant expansion project.

Byrnes advised sending city representatives to Chicago again to talk with regional officials of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

75 Units Set For Appleton's Flag Parade

More than 75 units are scheduled for the Flag Day parade in Appleton June 10.

The number will include 17 bands, 20 floats, marching units and vehicles carrying war veterans and Gold Star mothers, according to an announcement by the parade committee.

Included in the list of dignitaries who will participate in the celebration honoring the American flag, are Assemblymen Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton; and Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton; Sen. Gerald D. Lorge, R-Bear Creek, and Appleton Mayor George L. Buckley. William Leppien, known around Wisconsin for his portrayal of "Uncle Sam," also will appear in the parade.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and will last about an hour, committee members said.

Marching units will gather at St. Therese School, 213 E. Wisconsin Ave. The route will be from St. Therese west to State Street, south on State to Franklin Street, and east on Franklin to Union Street.

Fear Lake Pollution
 Federal officials in Chicago — after receiving briefs and other technical data from local sources and water consultants answering all questions — are again asking why the city doesn't clean up the Fox River and continue to use it rather than go to Lake Winnebago, which they fear, may also become polluted.

The engineers and consultants contracted by the city to handle local water project arrangements have documented the fact that the Fox River not only has industrial pollution but also contains human waste contamination. They claim the City of Appleton is not responsible for either.

The recommendation to abandon the Fox as a water source was made by engineers and consultants two years ago.

In the meantime, Dr. William Gallaher and other water department officials warn the city is rapidly approaching a water crisis.

Rotary President From Appleton at Parley in France

Appleton had on-the-spot representation at the annual Rotary International convention at Nice, France, recently. Raymond N. LeVeé, president of the Rotary club here, attended the five-day event with his wife.

They were among the 19,453 attending the conference of the worldwide service club, reporting that 87 countries were represented.

Nyoohi Tagasaki, Japan, was elected president of Rotary International for 1968.

LeVeé, president of an Appleton architectural firm, is making a tour of Europe while abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. LeVeé are visiting in Genoa and Venice this week.

Dimes Drive Hits $15,000 Mark in Outagamie Area

A total of $15,181 was collected in Outagamie County's 1967 March of Dimes campaign, which raised funds to combat birth defects.

According to Curt Biggar, campaign chairman, the goal the committee was shooting for was $20,000 but the campaign was considered a "success" since the total donated exceeded last year's figure by about $2,000.

In a breakdown, Appleton donated $9,172; Kaukauna, $1,542; Kimberly, $1,065; and Little Chute, $1,079, and others, $2,322.

Grand Opening Promoted for College Avenue

Chamber Officials, Council Members To Pool Initiative

Plans for the grand opening of Appleton's "new" College Avenue this fall are gaining momentum.

Mayor George Buckley said today everyone he has contacted concerning a public celebration has been enthusiastic.

Following the mayor's suggestion members of both the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and the city council's commerce-industrial development committee intend to pool their initiative.

Preliminary Meetings

In fact, a chamber group has been conducting preliminary meetings to arrange a grand opening for the business district.

Ald. Norman Beyer (20th), chairman of the council committee, replied to a letter from Buckley today and said his group would be happy to work on an avenue grand opening promotion.

At the same time Beyer indicated he had contacted chamber officials and would be meeting next week with a special committee headed by William Boettge, representing the Downtown Retailers Association.

In the meantime, the chamber office is serving as a clearing agency for individuals and groups in Appleton wishing to make donations to the downtown beautification program. J. S. Wells, who heads the group accepting the contributions for avenue landscaping and street-scaping, reports $3,200 has been received to date.

County Committee Searches For Reasons Causing Mishaps By Police Squad-Car Drivers

Corrective measures are likely to be taken to reduce the number of accidents involving Outagamie County sheriff's and traffic police department squad cars.

Meeting this morning with Arthur Coffey, of Coffey Agencies, Inc., the county board's law enforcement committee sought answers on what effects frequent accidents involving county-owned squad cars are having on the county's over-all insurance rates.

It was learned that premiums paid for 1965-66 for sheriff's and traffic police department autos totalled $6,420. Accident claim payments for the same two-year period came to $9,037, about $2,500 more.

Premiums Constant

However, since liability insurance coverage is combined with the highway department fleet, the overall county premium didn't go up.

Coffey did not say whether a better insurance experience with squad cars would result in an overall lowering of insurance rates.

Appleton Supv. Eugene Kloes, law enforcement committee chairman, said, "We're going to use this information to determine what course of action we're going to take on future accidents."

"We have to determine," Kloes said, "if these accidents are caused by negligence and by individual carelessness."

Disciplinary Action

"If we discover that there are repeated cases of individual carelessness, we're going to have to take disciplinary action in some cases."

Appleton Supv. George Greisch questioned Coffey about possible effects squad car accidents are having on insurance rates.

"We're not changing higher rates to the county because of our experiences with squad cars," Coffey said, "but if we took squad cars alone on a separate policy, it would be horrible."

"What has really disturbed me," he said, "has been the casuses of many of these accidents. There have been a lot of very foolish accidents."

Greisch asked Coffey if he thought corrective measures should be taken.

"Yes," Coffey answered, "or it will eventually affect your rate. We've got to do something to clean the risk up."

During a two-hour discussion on the subject, law enforcement committee members and the county's insurance representative went over individual accident records of traffic and sheriff's department personnel. The records indicated certain members of both departments have a higher frequency of accidents involving greater total claims payments.

Space Shortage Discussed by Outagamie Unit

Department Heads Make Request to Property Committee

It was a familiar sight this morning in the basement of the Outagamie County Courthouse where the county board's public property and insurance committee was meeting.

The committee dealt with courthouse department heads complaining about space shortages. Today's list of departments with space problems were the register of deeds, abstractor and veterans service.

Francis D. Heesakker, veterans service officer, came out the best. His department was awarded a small adjoining office formerly occupied by the county employees' credit union.

Register of Deeds Dominic Peeters and Abstractor Wilbert C. Vandenberg won the committee's sympathy, but didn't get more space.

Needs Space

Vandenberg said his committee needed more file and working space and suggested it come from the adjoining register of deeds department.

Peeters agreed to give up his space, but said he would have to be compensated by getting a meeting room located across the hall from his department. Peeters said the meeting room would make a good place to store his supplies.

The meeting room across the hall exists in space formerly utilized by the county's service center (which was moved downstairs into larger space formerly occupied by the agriculture department).

Moves to End

The agriculture department was moved to the other end of the courthouse's first floor into space formerly occupied by the welfare department. The welfare department has moved into the courthouse annex into space formerly used as a meeting room.

The committee agreed that Peeters needs the additional space and indicated he probably would get it.

But, county board committees have lost three meeting rooms recently in their efforts to provide more space for expanding departments.

One department head commented:

"When the time comes that county board committees run out of rooms to hold their committee meetings; then the day will come when we'll get our new courthouse."

68 Appleton Delegates Give Green Light to Voting at Age 19

MADISON (AP)—The red and green lights on the voting board in the state Assembly blinked out a decisive 48-18 endorsement Thursday for allowing 19-year-olds to vote.

But veteran politicians observing in the chamber weren't surprised.

Casting the votes was a group of eighth graders from St. Therese school in Appleton, happily being given a tour of the state Assembly chambers.

The Assembly members already have voted on the issue—with the same result.

HUD Adds $21,000 to Plan Commission Grant

Northeastern Wisconsin Agency to Use Extra Funds to Hire Draftsmen, Planners

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved a grant which will result in about $21,000 being added to the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission's 701 planning grant.

The funds will be administered through Wisconsin's Department of Resource Development.

The commission applied for the amendatory planning grant in January. Commission activities currently are being funded by a two-year grant which extends to May 1, 1968, according to William E. Morris, executive director.

Planning grants are used to provide general services for commission members. Morris said the grant would enable the commission to be of greater service to the counties.

Previous planning grants for the two-year period totaled approximately $114,000. The grants are awarded on a share basis with HUD providing two-thirds of the total and the member counties giving a third.

Morris said the new grant will be used to pay salaries for two full-time draftsmen and two full-time assistant planners. Counties which are members of the commission are Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca, Waushara, Shawano, Menominee, Langlade, Forest and Florence.

Legal Ruling Sought on Town Incorporation Bill

Assembly Turns to Attorney General for Opinion on Constitutionality of Proposal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Assembly turned to the attorney general's office Wednesday for a formal legal opinion on the constitutionality of a bill which would allow towns to become cities — probably stalling action on the proposal for the remainder of the spring session of the legislature.

The opinion was sought on the bill arising from city efforts to win the power of unilateral annexation of urbanized suburban areas from this session of the legislature.

That bill also has been stalled by a request of the state's attorney for an opinion on constitutionality.

The town incorporation bill, strongly backed by town officials from throughout the Fox River Valley, was sent to the legal department despite efforts by Assemblyman Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, to block the action. His attempt failed on an 83-11 vote, and the request was made on a voice vote.

Under the town-backed proposal, towns would be allowed to become cities if their population exceeds 5,000 persons and their valuation is determined to be in excess of $20 million.

Menasha to Annex Banta at Midway Market Up in Heavy Trading

Firm's Board Gives Unanimous Approval to Long Awaited Action

BY CLIFF MILLER
News Record Staff Writer

MENASHA — The long-awaited annexation of the Geo. Banta Co. Midway plant to the city has been approved unanimously by the firm's board of directors, as part of a 303-acre, $4.8 million annexation package announced today.

An official announcing intentions to circulate an annexation petition was scheduled for publication today over the signatures of two Banta officials. City Atty. Richard Steffens stated this morning, "This will go through. There is no doubt about it."

The circulation of petitions among owners of the 42 parcels involved must wait 10 days from the day the notice is published, and must be completed in 20 days. Signatures on the petition must represent owners of more than half of the area or half the valuation of the property. Steffens said there are no resident electors involved.

He said the Banta valuation alone—listed on official maps of the territory at $2,676,000—represents well over half the valuation, and the signatures of the firm's officials would be sufficient to bring about the annexation. He added, however, that other property owners have been contacted, giving indications that roughly 80 per cent of the territory's valuation and about 70 per cent of the land area will be represented by the signatures.

3 Cars Damaged, Driver Arrested After Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — Three cars were damaged and one driver issued a citation for hit and run driving following an accident at Depot and Main Streets about 1:20 a m. Wednesday.

Police said they had just finished writing a citation out for Eugene Dombrowski, 19, route 4, Appleton, who was stopped for speeding, when Dombrowski again took off around the corner at a high rate of speed striking parked cars owned by Roland Rusch Jr., 228 Lox Court, Kimberly, and Robert J. Hammen, 126 Taylor St., Kaukauna.

Dombrowski did not stop following the mishap although it was witnessed by police and several citizens, according to the report.

Menasha, Police Start Mediation

MENASHA — Representatives of the City of Menasha and Menasha Professional Police-men's Association (MPPA) were meeting behind closed doors this morning with a Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB) examiner to determine whether a deadlock exists in contract negotiations between the city and police.

If a deadlock is found to exist, the WERB will appoint an examiner to conduct factfinding proceedings with the union and the city sharing the costs involved.

Firemen Issue Warning On Charcoal Burners, Disposal of Coals

A warning on the use of charcoal burners was issued this morning by Capt. Robert Ertl of the Appleton Fire Department inspection bureau. Ertl said firemen were called out three times during the last week to extinguish fires started because of the careless use of the burners.

He cautioned against taking the coals out of the burner and placing them in combustible containers. Ertl advised leaving the burner, containing the coals, outside for some time to allow the charcoal to burn up completely.

The burners should not be brought into the house, garage or other building to burn out, Ertl said.

'Courteous Twins' Book Given to T-C Children

NEENAH — MENASHA — "The Cautious Twins," a two color, twelve-page publication of cartoon and verse was distributed to more than 5,300 school children in the Twin Cities.

With summer vacations just around the corner and more freedom for elementary school children in the city parks, at the beaches and "exploring new places" on their own, the booklet is designed to prevent child molestation tragedies before they become "headlines." It is published by the Wisconsin Credit Union League, Milwaukee, and distributed by the Neenah-Menasha Area Chapter of Credit Unions.

clared the city could consider today "as a 'D-Day'" in its history and added, "It is my hope that this will open up new areas for the city of Menasha. Now is the time for the people who own property touching this new annexation to come into the City of Menasha and help make our city grow and prosper."

Holmes also stated, "This is one of the happiest days since I have been elected as mayor. I wish to express my sincere thanks to Mr. George Banta, Jr., and the board of directors of the Geo. Banta Co. for their unanimous vote to annex their Midway Plant and property into the City of Menasha."

Thanks Banta
"I am sure the people of Menasha look to Mr. George Banta, Jr., as one of the few remaining industrialists who is living in Menasha and has dedicated himself to the welfare and growth of the City of Menasha."

George Banta, Jr., chairman of the board of the publishing company, has stated publicly in the past that he favored annexation of the Midway Plant property to the city when the time was right.

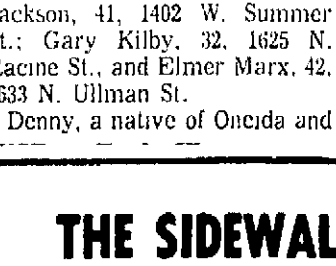

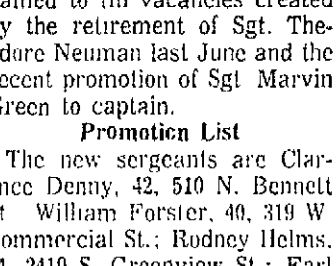

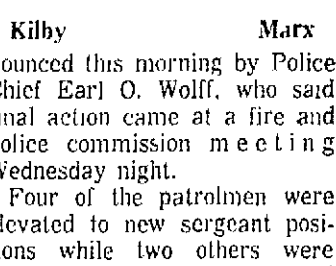

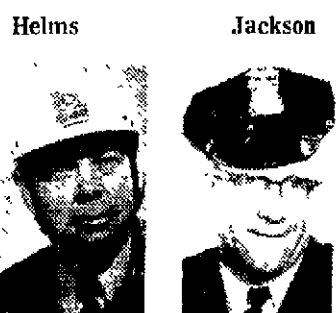

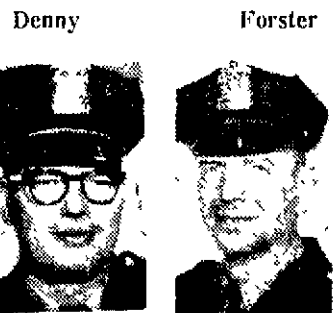

Steffens said the decision came at this time partly under the realization that the Town of Menasha, currently embarked on a militant effort to prevent future annexations by the city, might succeed in permanently blocking the Banta move if it were delayed further. The recent statements of Town Chairman Roland Kampe concerning the possible formation of a separate town school system—which Steffens had publicly pointed out recently would be financed chiefly by the Banta firm and Kimberly-Clark Corp. as chief town taxpayers—had also been an important stimulus, Steffens said.

U.S. Unprepared to Handle Greek Coup

Backers of King Constantine Sought
Help for Counter-Coup; Were Turned Down

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
ATHENS — In the early morning hours of April 21, after a handful of colonels had pulled their bloodless coup, a well-respected Greek politician and former cabinet minister telephoned a senior official of the U. S. embassy.
His plea: give King Constantine all possible support, moral or otherwise, if he attempts a counter-coup.
The reply was negative. Although the U. S. is most unhappy about the coup, he was told, only bloodshed seemed likely to result from an effort to undo it. Besides, the American diplomat continued, he did not want to drive the colonels into Moscow's arms because of hostility from the U. S.

Novak Evans

At this point, it is necessary to state two facts: the young king requested no help, moral or otherwise, from the U. S. embassy. Even if he had, Ambassador Phillips Talbot had no authorization from Washington to use the Sixth Fleet or other American power against the coup.

Missed Opportunity
Nevertheless, shrewd Greek politicians of both the right and left agree that the king and the U. S. missed a golden chance that early morning of April 21. They believe that Constantine, backed by American approval and perhaps a visit by the Sixth Fleet, would have had a better than even chance to rally loyal generals and troops behind the crown. This bloodless counter-coup then would have established a new royal-appointed regime.

Furthermore, the king and the U. S. have that rare commodity in power politics: a second chance. A royal coup this summer almost surely would involve more bloodshed than on April 21. But Greek politicians still look to the king as their hope for a quick overthrow of the military regime — if he is supported and, indeed, encouraged by the U. S.

As we reported in a previous column, the balance of power in the Eastern Mediterranean — quite apart from Nasser's threatening gestures — may be at stake. If the colonels are permitted to consolidate power with evermore repressive measures, Moscow may stir up guerrilla action in Greece as a counterthrust to Vietnam. Non-military U. S. intervention now not only would forestall such disaster but embellish America's tarnished image as an opponent of the far right as well as the far left.

Monarchy Imperiled
The stakes are equally high for the king. Ineffective meddling in Greek politics starting in 1965 steadily reduced his popularity, hitting bottom April 1 with his inability to control the army — supposedly an arm of the crown.

Even arch-royalists believe the fragile institution of the Greek monarchy is imperiled. But a royal coup would not only restore Constantine's prestige but give him towering authority to reform Greece's tawdry political system. It is generally believed here that Constantine, offered from the first by the presumptuous colonels, is upset by their rapid tightening of control. But even if he is prepared to act when the time is ripe, the question asked during the wee hours of April 21 remains: would the U. S. back him?

The answer remains negative. Fear that harsh treatment of the colonels might turn them toward Moscow has hardened a long American diplomats. While recognizing the danger of Communist-promoted insurrection against the military regime, they see an alternative Soviet ploy of trying to guide the colonels into a Nasserite mold — a theory, incidentally, scoffed at in Greek political circles.

Ask Firm Date
Thus, American officials here avoid a clearly hostile stance against the colonels and instead urge them to set a firm date for returning to constitutional government. At this writing, their efforts have gotten nowhere. Nor has the suspension of badly needed U. S. military hardware aid — tanks, planes, ships — had any impact on the colonels. Nevertheless, the U. S. embassy is unlikely to start plotting with the King. Greek politicians informed us that U. S. officials have privately suggested to them that the Greek government be remodeled along Turkish lines, nominally a parliamentary system but actually army-dominated. To Greek politicians, this is no better than straight military rule.

Actually, the U. S. embassy hasn't meddled intimately in Greek politics since the late Jack Peurifoy was ambassador in the early 1950s and is badly out of practice. If the U. S. is to ally itself with the King and loyalist army officers, the initiative must come from Washington.

That no such initiative is likely is reason to believe that the Greek crisis will deepen dangerously in the coming months, perhaps to the point where U. S. political intervention no longer can be effective.

5 Teens Admit Two Burglaries

Lead Breaks When Patrolman Observes
Youths at 3 a.m.

Appleton police have apprehended five 14-year-old boys in connection with burglaries and thefts of liquor from at least two homes.

Taken from the Donald Schlafke home, 1708 W. Packard St., were a watch valued at $90, a quart bottle of wine, two flashlights, a jewelry box containing numerous items, and 10 to 15 keys. The burglary was reported about 9:45 p.m. Tuesday, but police already had been told of the incident by the youths involved.

The youths also admitted burglarizing the home of Duane Kalm, 807 N. Badger Ave., Monday night. Two quarts of liquor and more than a case of beer were taken from the Kalm home, police said. Also missing was about $2.50 in change.

First lead in apprehension of the five youths came when a patrolman going home from work about 3:20 a.m. Tuesday found two boys near St. Paul School. One of the boys was hiding a fifth of gin under his jacket. The boys were questioned by a detective.

Detectives later learned the names of other boys involved. All of the youths were returned to their parents after questioning. Juvenile authorities will continue the investigation.

Board members authorized a change in the 1967-68 high school program whereby students will have a nine rather than seven-period day. Classes will be shortened from 55 to 40 minutes. Purpose of the change is to permit more flexibility in programming, and is the first step in a long-range program to permit students more independent study under controlled conditions.

Gradual Change

Members explained the new schedule is designed to use time, teachers and technology so students will have more advantages, more assistance and more success. Ultimately it is hoped resource centers can be set up in all areas to permit students to work independently in fields of special interest, with faculty members available to answer questions, assist with problems and set up work projects.

Students would be responsible for their own learning, but would have the time, resources and trained faculty to help get the job done with better results than in the past. The coming year will serve as an introduction to the overall program which will have to be developed over a period of time to permit setting up proper resource centers in all areas.

The first year, some students may have the opportunity to take additional subjects, due to the change in class periods.

$6 Theft Cost Menasha Man 30 Days in Jail

The theft of $6 from his employer cost Jerry Loberger, 24, 333 Elm St., Menasha, 30 days in jail Wednesday afternoon.

Loberger, who had pleaded guilty of the theft charge May 15, was sentenced by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller. He was charged on a complaint brought by officials of the Kroger Co. who said the offense occurred May 12 at the firm's store in the Town of Grand Chute.

A security officer reportedly made purchases and Loberger did not ring them up on the cash register. Investigation revealed that Loberger had made four sales, totaling $6.37, and kept $6 for his own use. He reportedly hid the money when he learned he was being observed.

Hearing Set On Status of New UW-GB

Bill Would Place
School in State University System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The bill designed to convert the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay into a campus of the state university system will be considered in a public hearing starting at 9 a.m. June 7 at Madison.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblymen Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, and J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, was introduced in reaction to what they have termed a changing of the intent of the act authorizing new two-year campuses in northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin, into full-fledged four-year institutions.

The hearing, before the Assembly education committee will be in Room 213 NW of the state capital.

Also to be considered at the hearing are bills relating to tuition scholarships awarded by legislators to state collegiate institutions, a guaranteed loan program for college and university students and partial tuition payments for some vocational school students.

'Paradise Lost' Ballet A Conversation Piece

Some Admire, Others Dislike Mod-Art Presentation; All Sit Up, Take Notice

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Picture a huge egg with neon lights on it flashing the 5-4-3-2-1 countdown. Out pops Adam. Picture Eve as a teeny-bopper scampering around in a white plastic miniskirt so short they call it a microskirt.

Put it all together and you have the ballet "Paradise Lost," the most talked about dance being presented on the British Royal Ballet's current 14-city American tour.

And who is dancing this mad mod ballet in which the "fall" is depicted — if that's the way you figure it out — by Adam's dramatic head-first plunge through an enormous pair of voluptuous red lips painted on a pop art backdrop?

Exciting New

Why, the Royal Ballet's two top drawing cards, Dame Margot Fonteyn, and Rudolf Nureyev.

Dame Margot says, "I wanted to do another ballet by Roland Petit and so the Royal invited him to do one. He thought it would be easy to do a romantic one for Rudolf and me, but obvious. If he did a quite different, more abstract type of modern ballet it would be adventurous — but dangerous — but the danger made it more exciting. We all felt it was the right thing to do."

Viewers haven't all agreed. Most have been excited, but some have felt that the golden team of Fonteyn and Nureyev is wasting its time on dress.

'Ballet is Entertainment'

The controversy doesn't trouble Dame Margot. "Nureyev and I have done all the romantic ballets and I think it is good for us to be seen doing something quite different," she says. "This turned out to be the

"Yes, it may go out of style, but it's not terribly important how long it lasts. The main point is whether the audience in the theater is enjoying it.

"Ballet, after all, is entertainment."

Audiences in New York laugh during "Paradise Lost," Dame Margot says, while London audiences, which saw it after its February premiere there, took it seriously. "I thought it was amusing. Audiences always are a bit quicker off the mark here," she says.

Classics Also Danced

During the New York engagement, which started the American tour, Dame Margot and Nureyev also danced in the classical "Giselle," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Swan Lake."

There have been rumors that Dame Margot is about to retire "Swan Lake," the ballerina's most difficult role, from her repertoire.

Not true, she says. "Once I gave up 'Swan Lake' for two years, about seven years ago, mostly because I had a bad left foot and most of the dancing comes on the left foot in 'Swan Lake.' After my foot started to be better, I realized that to keep up a standard in other ballets it is better to keep 'Swan Lake.' If you're always trying to do that one, it means you're pushing your standards to the limit, and in other, easier ballets you'll dance better."

Dame Margot's husband, Dr. Robert Arias, was shot in the spine by a political rival in his native Panama in 1964, and spent two years in a hospital outside London. His wife commuted daily from practice sessions and performances in London to his bedside.

This season he was able to come with her to a New York engagement for the first time since he was shot. They are staying in a spacious Fifth Avenue apartment lent by Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, and going out to dinner and parties. Dr. Arias in his wheelchair. The tiny ballerina, her big brown eyes shining, says, "It's another big step forward for him."

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

ARE WE AS ETIQUETTE-CONSCIOUS AS WE USED TO BE? YES NO

No. At the turn of the century, when there was a vast difference between the people who were "society" and those who were not, there was a big emphasis put on the proper way to do things. Now, with television in most American homes, we all see just how all sorts of things are done by the people who "rate." We don't go for stiff formality, but more of us function more easily in a variety of social situations than used to be the case.

Is a young girl safer with a boy her own age or an older fellow?

Your opinion—

A boy more nearly her own age. The Schofield Report from London finds the same trend noted here in the United States when it reports, "Girls who first had intercourse before they were 17 almost always had an older partner... the number of male adults who have introduced girls to sexual intercourse is large." The older fellow sometimes chooses an inexperienced girl with whom he can have his way rather than a woman his own age. A girl is safer with a boy her own age with whom she can have a pleasant time at her own level.

Rate your emotional maturity. Send for "How to Be an Emotional Growup," and see for yourself why some people never "grow up." Find your own weaknesses and some expert pointers toward recognizing your own shortcomings. The booklet is 20 cents. Send a stamped, return envelope along with the money, to: "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of The Post-Crescent.

Con Men Exposed on 'Dragnet'

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-9 Channels 4-5 — Elderly people, who are fairly easy prey for con artists, are advised to watch Dragnet 1967 as it details a shoddy, tragic plot in which confidence men, posing as bank examiners needing assistance from a bank depositor (always elderly), swindle these people of their savings. (R)

6:30-7 Channels 11-12 — Holy Forsooth, Batman and Robin spring along as they escape The Archer's lances, only to batleap to the conclusion that The Archer and his merry marauders are after the $10 million in cash the Wayne Foundation is handing out to the poor of Gotham City. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — Daniel Boone has another of those two - men - of - opposite - beliefs - who - come - to - admire - each - other stories. Boone's (Fess Parker) opponent here is Leaf Erickson, a swagging boatman whose help Dan'l needs to get a load of gunpowder downriver to Kentucky. (R)

7-7:30 Channels 11-12 — Forrest Tucker plays not only his regular F Troop role as Sgt. O'Rourke, but also his father, O'Rourke Sr. The old man has more than a touch of blarney to his tongue as he takes over Fort Courage by having it painted green, teaching the cook how to make Irish stew and Wrangler Jane how to get a man. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7-12 — My Three Sons is the least likely show on TV to wind up with a wild pie and cake-throwing scene, but that's what happens tonight. Robbie, broke as usual, gets a great idea: Birthdays Unlimited, which means he will supply cakes for all the college students on their natal day, for a small charge to parents. (R)

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — Star Trek repeats one of its best episodes. Robert Walker is "Charlie X," a boy who says he has been living for 14 of his 17 years on a deserted planet. He wants desperately to be liked but his innocence keeps getting in the way. (R)

8-10 Channels 2-7-12 — "The Delicate Delinquent" on The Thursday Night Movies is one of those energetic Jerry Lewis farces. This time he is a janitor of a rundown New York tenement and is drawn into a lot of silliness with a variety of hoods. (R)

Redistribution of State Road Aid Proposed By Senate Committee

MADISON (AP) — A Senate committee voted 3-2 Wednesday

Area Musicians Will Perform at Lawrence Recital

Three Fox Cities instrumentalists will be among the performers on the closing recital of the Lawrence University concert season at 2:30 p.m. Friday at Memorial Chapel.

The three are organists Frank Rippl, 738 Wilson St., Menasha, and Paul Emmons, 209 E. Hancock St., and alto-saxophonist Kathleen McIntyre, 803 S. Pierce St.

Rippl and Miss McIntyre are conservatory sophomores. Emmons is a freshman.

Miss McIntyre will be assisted by pianist Taya Hirschhoff, Minneapolis, Minn., in a performance of the second movement, Larghetto, from "Concertino da Camera," by Jacques Ibert.

Other performers on the program will be organist Carolyn Schultz, Janesville; pianist Linda Skoug, Eau Claire; tuba player Gary Woelm, Elm Grove; and accompanists John Hall, Eagle River, and Robert Below, an associate professor of music.

The recital is 35th of the 1966-67 student series.

Lobster Catch Off, Expected to Continue Down

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — A gloomy prediction has been offered for lobster lovers.

The Maine lobster catch has declined 4 1/2 million pounds in the past decade and may keep on sinking until the 1980s according to Robert L. Dow.

Dow, research director of the state Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries, said Wednesday the drop in catch may be related to colder waters in the Gulf of Maine.

Dow said Maine's lobster crop has fallen from nearly 24.5 million pounds in 1957 to less than 20 million last year. At the same time, he said, the ocean temperature off Maine has dropped from an average 49 degrees to about 45.

Dow has proposed environmental control in an effort to restore the state's lobster production. His department has begun to study the effects of heated water on lobsters and hopes to start soon on lobster "farming."

City Might Pay For Losing Mouse

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The municipal legal department recommends that Des Moines pay $850 for losing a mouse.

Mrs. Joyce A. Wright had sued the city for $2,156 on grounds that her 4-year-old son, Ward, had to undergo a series of painful antirabies shots because city workers misplaced a mouse which had bitten the boy.

The mouse was captured last August and was supposed to have been sent to Iowa City for testing to determine whether it had rabies, but the rodent never got to the laboratory.

To recommend passage of a bill that would redistribute state highway aids to towns, villages and cities.

The proposal, sent from the highways committee to the Senate floor for action, would require all new aids returned to localities be based on the number of vehicle registrations. The present formula is based on the number of miles of highway in each municipality and favors towns and rural villages.

The bill would freeze the present distribution at the current biennial level, but reallocate all additional funds according to the new plan.

Truck, Trailer Tip In Freak U. S. 41 Mishap Tuesday

A 1966 truck and the 22-foot house trailer it was pulling tipped over in a freak accident late Tuesday morning on U. S. 41, just south of State 125, west of Appleton.

The truck, a 1966 model "travel-all," is owned by Jack E. Renner, 42, 115 Poplar Court, Neenah, and the trailer, which reportedly had just been purchased from an Appleton sales firm, is owned by his sister, Doris Von Hessert, 239 Columbia Ave., Neenah. There were no injuries, although damage to both the truck and trailer were extensive. Damage was to the rear fender, right side, front, and windshield of the truck, and the front window and right side of the 1962-model trailer. Police estimated damage at $2,200.

Renner told Outagamie County police he was southbound on 41 when the trailer began to sway. He said the sway became worse when he applied the brakes.

Both vehicles then tipped onto their sides across a portion of the highway.

Use a Tablet to Try This Interesting Writing Stunt

BY CAPPY DICK
For fun when you and some of your pals get together, try the back-of-your-neck writing stunt described here.
The materials required are a tablet of paper and a pencil.
Take turns. Each person holds the pad of paper at the back of his neck or shoulders as the boy write the words "This is a sample."

The writing is to be made as legible as possible.
When a player has completed the words, he removes the paper from the tablet, prints his name on it and hands the tablet and pencil to the next player, who tries his hand.
When everyone has had a turn, compare the results to see who has produced the most legible handwriting.

Rookie Rich Nye Pitches, Bats Cubs Past Redlegs, 6-5 Giants Tounce Pirates, 15-4; Phillies Defeat Dodgers in 11th

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer "I just try to make them hit my pitch," says Rich Nye, who did quite a job of hitting them. The Chicago Cub rookie left-hander beat the National League-leading Cincinnati Reds 6-5 Wednesday night, although he needed relief help in the ninth inning. But Nye didn't need help in the batter's box, a place where pitchers usually feel anything but at ease. He drove in a run and scored twice on two singles, a double and a walk. Houston whipped the New York Mets 6-1, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 6-0 in 11 innings and San Francisco trounced Pittsburgh 15-4 in other National League action. The Atlanta at St. Louis game was rained out. Doubled in Third Nye doubled in the third and scored on Glenn Beckert's single, singled home a run in the sixth and walked and scored in the Cubs' three-run eighth. His other hit was a bunt single in the fifth. Beckert doubled home Nye and Ron Santo singled in the other two runs in the eighth as the Cubs took a 6-2 lead. Then the Reds, who had been held to three hits by Nye in seven innings, finally got to the rookie in the eighth when they scored three times on a walk, single, two doubles and a fielder's choice. Nye finished the inning, and then Cal Koonce got the Reds out in the ninth. Houston exploded for six runs in the sixth inning against the Mets, moving into ninth place by 13 percentage points over New York. Staub Has Double Three of the Astros' runs came in on singles by Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte and Rusty Staub's double. Ron Brand singled in two more and the sixth scored on an error by shortstop Bud Harrelson. Dave Giusti allowed the Mets only four hits, one of them a homer by Bob Johnson, in gaining his second victory after five straight losses. He struck out eight and walked one. The Phillies, held scoreless by Don Drysdale on six hits through 10 innings, exploded in the 11th, with Bill White driving in the first run with his first hit. Turn to Page 10, Col. 6

USAC Rules Committee Plans to Discuss Engine Question; A. J. Picks Up Record Check of $171,227

By DALE BURGESS INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Parnelli Jones' "whispering wind" turbine car died away and lost to A. J. Foyt Jr.'s conventional rear-engine Coyote Ford in Wednesday's 500-mile auto race. But controversy over use of an aircraft engine for the first time in the 56-year-old race had not quieted today. Henry Banks, director of competition for the U. S. Auto Club and himself a former national champion, said the question of running a turbine against piston engines "definitely will be brought up" at a June 5 meeting of the USAC rules committee. "It's our job to keep the competition even; arranging formulas for that purpose is a foremost consideration," Banks said. "There were no ground rules for a turbine and we think we came up with a pretty good formula for one. All you can do for a new development is run it once and then reconsider." Foyt picked up a record first place check for $171,227 at the Victory Dinner Wednesday night. Jones, who slipped to sixth in the wreck-halted race, got $48,392 including $27,000 in lap prizes for leading 171 of the 200 laps. Foyt's record average was 151.207 m.p.h. against Jim Clark's 1965 mark of 150.686. Jones had one lap at 164.926, another record. Unser Wins $69,977 Second place Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., won $69,977 and third place Joe Leonard, Foyt's teammate, got $43,527. The total purse of $727,346.98 broke a record of $691,808.90 set last year. The race, run in sections of 45 and 455 miles because of a Tuesday interruption by rain, proved that the STP-Pratt & Whitney turbine could go off and hide from any piston engine on the track whenever Jones hit the throttle. A $6 ball bearing finally failed in the gear box with less than 10 miles to go and the dogged Foyt won as he had in 1961 when leader Eddie Sachs stopped to change a tire with only 2 1/2 miles to go. Jones said he was running slowly and smoothly when the bearing went out. "I was going into the third," he said. "It felt just like pulling the car out of gear." Foyt won the hard way in 1964 and joins the only other three-time winners, Louis Meyer, Wilbur Shaw and Mauri Rose. Foyt said he might be in a turbine car himself next year if the rules aren't changed to bar it. He said he simply couldn't

4 Fox Cities Schools in Tennis Meet

Menasha Defends State Crown, Starting Friday

Menasha, Kimberly and Neenah will carry Fox Cities colors into the state high school tennis tournament with full teams at Milwaukee Nicolet Friday and Saturday. Kaukauna will send a doubles unit to the state test. Menasha, which won a second successive sectional title at AHS last weekend, will defend its state title. Kimberly tied for second place (with Green Bay East) in the AHS sectional, while Neenah was second to Manitowoc in the Oshkosh sectional. Menasha's Kevin Conway, sectional singles champion, will go after the state title won by former teammate Tom Vanderhyden last year. The Jays' other singles player will be Jeff Forderman, while Tom Kenney and Ben Adams will represent Menasha in doubles. Kimberly, qualifying a full team for the state tennis tourney for the first time ever, will rely on sectional doubles champions Jim VandenHeuvel and Dave Hofkens. Papermaker singles players will be Bruce Weiland and Bill Lamers. Neenah will be represented in singles by Leigh Ford (sectional runnerup) and Brian Kuehn and by the doubles team of Pat Nadolny and Jeff Jensen. The Kaukauna doubles team of Pat Brautigan and Terry Kobin, runnersup in the Appleton sectional, draw a bye in Friday's opening round at Milwaukee. Kimberly's duo faces Milwaukee Boys Tech's Kotlarek and Morales. Menasha's 'a' doubles players face Milwaukee Bay View's Shore and Dubinski in the opening round. Neenah's duo meets Reedsburg's Imhoff and Kohlmeier. Conway, the No. 1 singles seed with a 21-2 record, draws a bye in the opening round, as do Forman and Ford. Kimberly's Lamers will face Onalaska's Larry Olson, while Weiland takes on Jefferson's Jim Ambroz. Neenah's Kohen will meet Racine Horlick's Chris Weyland.

Illinois, Iowa Cage Stars Will Enroll at UW

MADISON (AP) — University of Wisconsin basketball coach John Erickson announced Wednesday that two outstanding Iowa and Illinois players will enroll at Wisconsin in the fall. The players are 6-foot-3 guard Dennis Conlon of Dubuque, Iowa, Walther High School and 6-foot-4 forward Jim Foote of Rockford, Ill., Auburn High School. Erickson said Conlon made both the Iowa all-state team and the all-state tournament team, while Foote was the leading scorer in the Illinois Big Eight conference.

With Five Speeding Race Cars bearing down on him, Wally Dallenbach, New Brunswick, N.J. leaps from his wrecked racer on the home stretch in Wednesday's Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race. Dallenbach hit the wall near the pits about halfway through the race. (AP Wirephoto)

Chisox Win; Tigers Lose Yastrzemski Smashes 2 Homers as Red Sox Nip Minnesota, 3-2

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer The pressure is getting to Carl Yastrzemski . . . and it's the best feeling he's had in seven years. "Every time at bat means something now," Yastrzemski said Wednesday night after clouting his ninth and 10th home runs to help the Boston Red Sox edge Minnesota 3-2 for their fourth straight victory. "We're playing tight ball games and you've got to be bearing down all the time," the slugging outfielder added as the Red Sox savored the heady atmosphere of third place in the American League race. Yastrzemski has won one AL batting championship and barely missed another since joining Boston in 1961. But he has never played on a pennant contender. This year, Yaz is off to his best start ever . . . and the Red Sox are keeping pace for a change. 4 1/2-Games Out Wednesday night's victory over the Twins left them 4 1/2 games out of first place. The Chicago White Sox trimmed Detroit's league lead to one-half game, nipping Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings while Cleveland was drubbing the Tigers 9-0 behind the six-hit, 13-strikeout pitching of Luis Tiant. New York blanked Kansas City 3-0 and Washington trimmed California 6-3 in other AL games. Yastrzemski's leadoff homers in the fourth and seventh innings staked right-hander Darrell Brandon to a 2-0 lead and the Red Sox added another run in the seventh on a suicide squeeze bunt by Mike Ryan. That run turned out to be the winner when the Twins chased Brandon with a two-run burst in the eighth before reliever John Wyatt stemmed the tide. Finished Ninth The Red Sox are 22-20 for the season, compared to 16-26 at the same point last year, when they finished ninth. "I said before the season that this team would win more games than it loses, and I still believe that," said Manager Dick Williams. Ron Hansen's run-scoring single in the 11th lifted the White Sox past Baltimore after Boog Powell's sacrifice fly pulled the Orioles even in the ninth. Ken Berry, whose bunt single in the sixth delivered Chicago's second run, led off the 11th with a single, took second on a sacrifice bunt and scored the tie-breaking run on Hansen's hit. Tiant breezed to his third victory against one setback and knocked in two runs with a sixth inning single. Leon Wagner and Larry Brown each drove in three runs for the Indians, who pounded six Detroit pitchers for 16 hits. Shutout Victory Rookies Steve Whitaker and Thad Tillotson led the Yankees to their shutout victory, with a ninth inning assist from relief specialist Dooley Womack. Whitaker crashed a two-run homer and right-hander Tillotson, making his first major league start, checked the A's on five hits before tiring in the ninth. Womack replaced him with one out and the bases loaded. Turn to Page 10, Col. 1 game of the series, and patients at the Winnebago State Hospital will also be guests. Tuesday, for the conclusion of the home stay, postmasters, here for the state convention, will be guests of the Foxes. Wednesday night, Cedar Rapids held first-place Wisconsin Rapids to a split in a make-up doubleheader. The Cardinals won the opener, 1-0, but the Twins came back to take the nightcap, 5-0. Tonight, Cedar Rapids' Cardinals make their first appearance at Goodland Field since their post-season playoff appearance last August. The Appleton Foxes, defending Midwest League champions, open a 6-game home stand tonight. Cedar Rapids, the second-round champion in 1966, has gotten off to a slow start in the 1967 race. The Foxes are again in the thick of the pennant battle — one-half game out of first place. Members of the New London and Winnebago school safety patrols will be guests of the Foxes at 8 p.m. today. The Foxes were not scheduled Wednesday night. The second game of the series is set for 8 p.m. Friday. The series finale, Saturday, will be staged, on a booster night co-sponsored by the Downtown Retail Association and the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce. Colts Sign Bubba Smith Michigan State's 295-Pound Lineman Was First Choice BALTIMORE (AP) — Bubba Smith, Michigan State's 6-foot-7, 295-pound defensive lineman, who was selected first in the National Football League draft, signed today with the Baltimore Colts. Baltimore received the first round pick from the new NFL New Orleans Saints in exchange for lineman Butch Allison and reserve quarterback Gary Cuozzo. The Colts did not disclose the terms of the contract. Club officials said Smith, an All-America, will probably play at tackle. He played tackle, guard and end, all on defense, in three years of varsity competition at Michigan State. Smith, who flew in from East Lansing to attend the press conference at which his signing was announced, was scheduled to return there today to complete his final examinations.

'67 Contract Given Okay By Bratkowski

GREEN BAY (AP) — Zeke Bratkowski, the Green Bay Packers' backup quarterback for Bart Starr, has signed a contract for 1967-68 with the National Football League champions. Bratkowski, who will be 36 in October, guided the Packers to victories over Chicago, Los Angeles and Baltimore last season while Starr rested. Green Bay also announced Wednesday having signed defensive halfback Dave Hathcock of Memphis State.

Epstein Just Wants Opportunity to Play

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mike Epstein indicates he would be willing to return to the minor leagues if he can't become a regular with the Washington Senators. But he says he'll have to be given an opportunity to play his way out of the majors.

"If I get my opportunity, I will not complain," said Epstein, who rebelled three weeks ago when Baltimore sent him back to Rochester where he was named minor league player of the year in 1966.

"That was my difference with the Orioles. I got no opportunity to prove myself. I was not trying to set any precedent.

"The entire issue revolved around the absence of an opportunity I thought I deserve," Epstein said after reporting here from California.

The 24-year-old first baseman went home to Stockton, Calif., rather than report to Rochester and said he would quit baseball before he would go to the minors as a member of the Baltimore organization.

Washington acquired Epstein and pitcher Frank Bertina from Baltimore Monday in a deal that sent ace Senators' pitcher Pete Richert to the Orioles.

At a news conference, Epstein was asked why he deserved a big league job after only two years in the minors. He was told Mickey Mantle was sent back for more experience and Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams had more minor league time than he did.

"I have heard that comparison," replied Epstein. "But they were given the opportunity and played their way into the minors. I wasn't given that opportunity with the Orioles."

Asked if he would object to returning to the minors if he failed to make the club, he replied: "I'm not looking forward to that happening but at least I will be able to say 'I had a chance.'"

"I have confidence I have the necessary ability to stay in the big leagues. And I want to insert here that I'd like to repay the debt of confidence vested in me by the Senators."

Epstein, who worked out before Wednesday night's game with California, probably won't break into the regular line-up before next week in New York. But the Senators didn't need him in defeating the Angels 6-3.

AHS' Vogt Ties Best Time For High Hurdles in Fox Cities

The Fond du Lac sectional track meet was the scene for all changes in the Fox Cities tabulation during the last week.

Appleton's John Vogt climbed into a tie for first place in the high hurdles as he skimmed over in 15.2 seconds to win the sectional. Vogt tied Menasha's Steve Jansen, who placed third in the sectional and did not qualify for the state meet Saturday.

Neenah's Pat Schaller lowered his first place time in the 880 as he turned in the Fox Cities first sub-2-minute half mile with a clocking of 1:57.5.

Both Neenah relay units clipped seconds off already glistening times. The 880 relay quartet turned in a 1:31.1 for one of the best times in the state. Its previous best was 1:32.8. The mile foursome topped its previous best clocking twice in the past week, first in the Mid-Eastern Conference relays and then in the sectional. Its top time was in the sectional with 3:27.5, also one of the outstanding times in the state, and clipped almost seven seconds off its previous 3:34.1.

Weaved on Through 5-Car Crash

Foyt 'Lagged' on Final Lap

By JAMES R. POLK
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Going slow, not fast, got A. J. Foyt Jr. to the finish line first in the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race Wednesday.

Foyt explained that he was able to dodge a spinning, five-car crash on the final turn because he had purposely lagged behind the rest of the pack still circling the race track.

"I had a funny instinct," said Foyt as he described his last lap en route to victory. "I let the rest of the guys run ahead. I knew there was a lot of wall out there and I didn't want anything to happen."

The curly-haired Texan said, "When I came to the fourth turn I saw all the smoke, so I whipped the car over to the grass and came almost to a halt. Then I just went to the inside of the track and weaved on through."

"I was nervous," he related. "I could have walked as fast. I didn't want anybody to hit me. I knew I had the race won if I could just get back to the starting line."

The triumph was the third in the rich race for the 32-year-old Houston driver, who helped build his own winning car. Like his first victory in 1961, it came when the leading driver dropped out in the last few miles.

"People stood up and were waving me on then and it was the same thing today," Foyt said. "The fans were the ones who told me. I knew something had happened when the fans started waving me on."

The Texan was on the other side of the track when the turbine-powered car of Parnelli Jones, easy leader almost all of the race, failed just 7 1/2 miles from the end.

Foyt, who had led only twice earlier when Jones made pit stops, said, "I just tried to set myself a good pace and that was all. I just wanted to stay on the same lap and move up if he had trouble."

He grinned and added, "Like I've always said, the race is 500 miles long."

The short, balding Jones said, "I'm so disappointed I don't know what to say."

The Californian said, "I was running quite smoothly and all of a sudden it wore out. I was driving those last laps so slow from the end."

Hulme Named Top Rookie In the '500'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Denis Hulme of Tauranga, New Zealand, won the Rookie-of-the-Year award Tuesday at the annual victory dinner for the drivers of the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Hulme finished in an unofficial fourth position in the race, which was resumed after rain stopped the Memorial Day classic after 18 laps, or 45 miles.

The award is given annually by Stark and Wetzel meat packers. It includes $500 cash and a year's supply of meat, valued at $500.

Hulme is a veteran of the Grand Prix circuit, and is the leader in the world road racing standings. He recently won the Monaco Grand Prix.

The term rookie is given to all drivers racing for the first time in the Indianapolis 500.

I thought there was nothing that could go wrong. It was just like driving my passenger car down the highway."

Andy Granatelli, owner of the turbine car, said a $6 ball bearing failed and crippled the gear box. Foyt called it a $6-million ball bearing.

He conceded Jones' turbine car was easily the fastest in the field and said he would have to drive a turbine racer to keep up with others next year unless race officials impose restrictions on the engines "to make them more equal to us."

Foyt's third victory followed previous triumphs in 1961 and 1964 and put him in an elite circle with Louis Meyer, Wilbur Shaw and Mauri Rose, who was the last man to win a third crown in 1948.

Dick's Pub Takes Second Place in Softball Tourney

Dick's Pub, Appleton, took second place in the first annual Fond du Lac Softball Tournament played over the Memorial Day weekend.

Dick's was defeated, 9-6, in the finals Tuesday by Military Golfland, Green Bay.

Steve Wilson, pitcher for Dick's, was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Wilson hurled a no-hitter and 2-hitter in the tourney and went 7-for-11 at the plate.

Most valuable pitcher Tom Lemorande, of Military, who racked up four victories.

In the semi-finals, Dick's beat Esquire Bar, Green Bay, 4-3, and Military downed Jitter's and John's, Menasha, 7-3.

Yankees Sign Monbouquette

Baltimore Sells Charlie Lau to Atlanta Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Monbouquette got another chance to save his major league pitching career, but Jim Bouton will have to make a go of it in the minors for a while.

Monbouquette released by Detroit two weeks ago, was signed Wednesday by the New York Yankees, who also optioned Bouton to Syracuse of the International League subject to a 24-hour recall.

A 30-year-old right-hander, Monbouquette had his best year with Boston in 1963, winning 20 games. He pitched a no-hitter in 1962. Bouton, 28, won 21 games or the Yankees in 1964, but has had arm troubles lately.

Over Waiver Price
In other action on the baseball trading and signing front Wednesday, San Francisco ought outfielder Ty Cline from Atlanta for something more than the $20,000 waiver price and sent Ken Henderson to Phoenix to make room for him. Baltimore sold catcher Charlie Lau to Atlanta for an undisclosed sum and recalled back-top Vic Roznovsky from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League.

Washington optioned pitcher Jim Hannan to Hawaii of the PCL to make room for first baseman Mike Epstein and pitcher Frank Bertina, who were obtained in a trade with Baltimore for pitcher Pete Richert.

Philadelphia bought pitcher John Booser from its San Diego arm club in the PCL. He has posted a 3-4 record with a 2.59 ERA.

Hofa Park and Navarino Stay Undeclared

Nichols, Bonduel Score One-Sided 'Dairyland' Wins

DAIRYLAND LEAGUE
Northern Division	Southern Division
Hofa Park	Freedom
Navarino	Garsow
Bonduel	Oneida
Cecil	Seymour
Shiocton	Nichols
Bear Creek	Black Creek

Hofa Park and Navarino remained unbeaten in the Northern Division in whipping two Southern Division foes in Dairyland Baseball League action Tuesday afternoon.

Hofa Park rapped Seymour, 9-0, to record its fourth straight win, while Navarino topped Freedom, 9-6, for its third victory. Nichols blasted Shiocton, 17-4, and Bonduel riddled Black Creek, 19-3.

In other games Garsow moved into a tie with Freedom for first in the South with a 6-2 win over Cecil, and Oneida Mission stopped Bear Creek, 6-2.

Hofa Park jumped out with four wins in the first inning and coasted to the win behind the 4-hit pitching of Hank Peerenboom. Peerenboom struck out nine hitters and walked one.

Singles by Ralph Rozniarek, Roger Dorn, Del Dorn and Peerenboom produced four runs in the Park first. The winners added a single run in the second and then used three hits for four more runs in the fourth. Rozniarek had four hits in five at-bats.

Rallies For 4

Navarino rallied for four runs in the seventh inning and went on to beat Freedom, 9-6. Jim Meyer's 2-run single highlighted the outburst that included five hits and a pair of walks.

Howie Vanden Elzen paced the Navarino attack with three safeties, including two doubles, and had four runs batted in. Jack Dingeldien had a solo home run for the winners in the fourth.

Vern Bowers' 2-run homer had given Freedom a 3-1 lead, and Don Vandewettering's circuit drive in the seventh stretched it to 6-3 before Navarino made its comeback. Vanden Elzen got credit for the win in relief, and Lee Wachel was charged with the loss.

Nichols had two 5-run innings against Shiocton, as Vaughn Wilkinson went 4-for-6 at the plate to lead the 17-hit assault. Joe Buss pitched for the winners.

Shiocton took a 3-1 advantage in the first inning, but Marlyn Merholtz tripled in two runs and scored on Barry Schwardt's single. However, Nichols put together four hits, a walk and a hit batsman for five runs in the third to begin the rout.

Jim Danforth had two doubles for Oneida Mission. His fifth-inning hit boosted his team to a 3-0 lead, and Oneida picked up a single run in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

John Garsow got credit for the win but needed help from J. Skenadore and Gene Danforth. Bear Creek, striking out 12.

Drage Hurls Win

Bonduel broke open a scoreless game with a 7-run fourth inning that chased Black Creek starter Don Kettner. The inning included three hits, two walks and a number of errors and passed balls.

Leon Drage, the winner, allowed six hits, struck out eight and walked two. Three Black Creek hurlers permitted only nine hits but walked 10. They struck out 16.

Pat Wudtke led Bonduel with three hits in four trips, and Joe Rueckert was 2-for-3. Kettner and Jerry Hartleben hit solo homers for Black Creek.

Bill Gipp struck out 19 Garsow hitters but Cecil still lost, 6-2. Al Mitchell and Gary Hodekiewicz each had two hits to lead the winners. Dan Parines topped the Cecil club with two safeties.

Egypt Tells U.S. To Avoid Aqaba

Carrier Sails Past Suez, Into Red Sea

CAIRO (AP) — Shadowed by two Egyptian submarines, the U.S. carrier Intrepid sailed into the Red Sea today after passing through the Suez Canal.

About 300 Egyptian demonstrators screamed epithets at the carrier from the canal bank, apparently convinced the 41,000-ton ship will try to break Egypt's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba. The Defense Department in Washington insists the Intrepid is sailing for Vietnam.

Cairo newspapers reiterated charges that the Intrepid would take up a position off the Gulf of Aqaba, which President Gamal Abdel Nasser has barred to Israeli shipping.

The Egyptian submarines passed through the canal ahead of the Intrepid, then began shadowing her as she entered the Red Sea.

As the Middle East crisis simmered, troops from Iraq and Kuwait joined Arab forces against Israel, and Britain urged maritime powers to declare the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tiran at its mouth, international waters open to all ships, including Israelis.

The United States pushed for adoption by the U.N. Security Council of a resolution urging both the Arabs and Israelis to cool off while diplomats continued efforts to resolve the Middle East crisis.

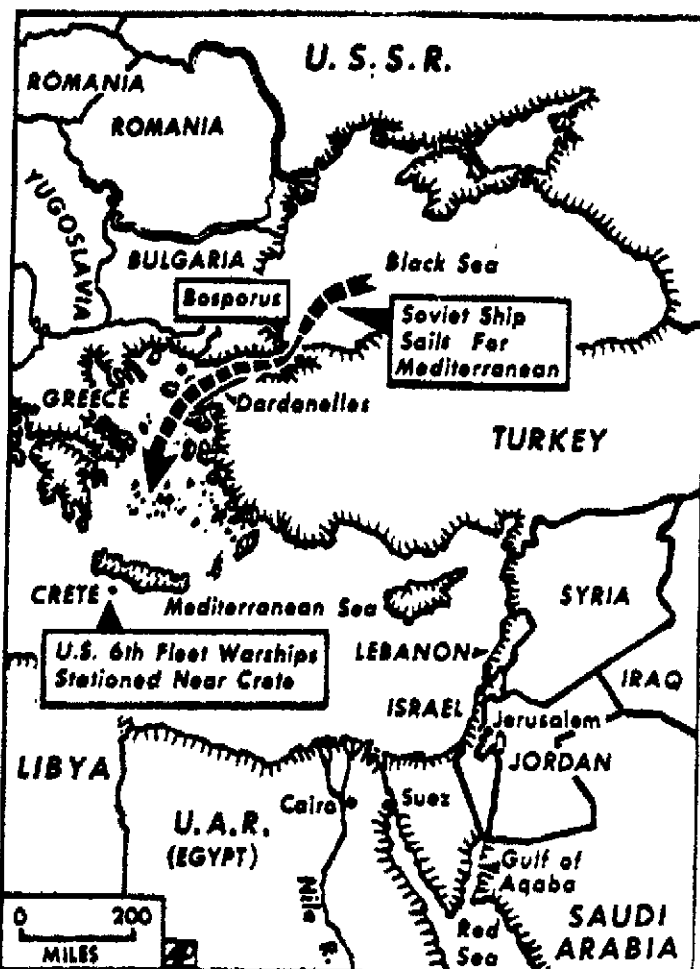

The United States was told by Egypt to avoid involvement in Egypt's announced blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba and by Israel that not only Israel's interests but the foundations of international law are at stake in the Aqaba issue. The gulf leads to the Israeli port of Elath, through which 90 per cent of the Jewish nation's oil is imported.

Group on West Coast Puts Ban on Sunshine

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A car dealer has organized a "We Love Rain Society" aimed at keeping out-of-staters out of Washington.

The dealer, Dick Lewis, said Wednesday the idea is to cut down on the state's population growth by pushing the image that it rains a lot in Washington. He said society members are instructed not to mail any sunny pictures out of state, always wear a raincoat, and hide all bathing suits, sport shirts, sunglasses and sun-lan lotion.

Envoy Says Deeper Crisis Would Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Egyptian envoy has warned the United States to avoid involvement in Egypt's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba — termed by the Israeli ambassador "our second lung."

Ambassador Mostafa Kamel of Egypt said Wednesday that if a third party enters the Arab-

Wilson Heads for U. S.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson left today for critical talks with President Johnson and Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson on the Middle East crisis, the Vietnam war and other hot spots.

Israeli dispute, "this will really make the crisis serious."

His statement came after a one-hour session with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

President Johnson met with his Cabinet to discuss the crisis, but the White House continues to remain silent on any developments. This follows a policy, announced last week, of working through diplomatic channels to resolve the dispute.

The State Department denied newspaper reports that Turkey has pledged to block U.S. use of Turkish bases if war breaks out in the Middle East.

No U.S. Bases
Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said the question hadn't arisen. He said there are no U.S. bases in Turkey, but acknowledged some Turkish facilities are available to the United States under various agreements.

Other U.S. officials said privately U.S. involvement in the Middle East would not require use of Turkish bases.

McCloskey also refused to discuss the Egyptian-Jordanian mutual defense pact — solemnized at a meeting Tuesday of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Jordan's King Hussein, long-time foes.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Wednesday Army Spec. 4 Frederick G. Styer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Styer of rural Menomonie, Wis., has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Combined Locks Girl Darts Into Street Near Home, Killed by Auto

COMBINED LOCKS — A six-year-old Combined Locks girl was struck and killed by a car as she was returning home from her kindergarten class Wednesday afternoon.

Nancy Schommer

Nancy Schommer, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Schommer, 202 E. Elm St., was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, where she was taken by Larry's Ambulance.

Combined Locks police identified the driver of the car that struck the girl as Kenneth J. Kroiss, 19, route 4, Appleton. He was alone in his 1966 auto.

The accident occurred at Prospect Street (Outagamie County Trunk Z) and Elm Street, about three blocks from the girl's home. She was crossing Prospect from the north side with her friend and classmate, Lori Wulterkens, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wulterkens Jr., 209 E. Elm St. Witnesses said the Schommer girl darted in front of the eastbound Kroiss auto. The left front fender of the car struck the girl. Police said she was not in the crosswalk.

Both girls were going home from afternoon kindergarten.

Second Pay Boost Sought For Legislators

MADISON (AP) — A proposed pay plan boost for state department heads released today includes an increase from $8,400 yearly to $9,000 annually for legislators.

A hearing on the recommendations will be held by the State Personnel Board June 9 in the Capitol.

The proposed $600 annual hike comes less than a year after lawmakers raised their salaries from $5,600 to $8,400. At the time of the last increase, the Legislature tied future boosts to the civil service pay scale.

In the past, legislative salaries were raised through the usual process of passing a bill which would have to be signed by the governor.

Based On Study

The new procedure allows the increases to go into effect with only the approval of the personnel board and the Legislature's 14-member Joint Finance Committee.

The recommendation by the personnel bureau pay raise was based on a 1966 study which said lawmakers spent half of their time on their statehouse duties.

313 U. S. Deaths in Week

Spectacular Naval Shelling Wrecks Guerrilla Stronghold

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — An American armored force charged today into a huge guerrilla fortress uncovered on the South Vietnamese coast by one of the war's most spectacularly successful naval bombardments.

The coastal action was announced as the U.S. Command reported the highest American casualties of the war, the greatest monthly loss of U.S. planes in raids over North Vietnam and a record monthly toll of North Vietnamese MIGs.

U.S. casualties last week totaled 2,941—313 killed, 2,616 wounded and 12 missing or captured. The command said 36 U.S. warplanes were lost over North Vietnam during May, three more than the previous high last July, while a record 27 Communist jets were shot down in dogfights during the month.

The naval bombardment took place in Quang Ngai Province—one of the most firmly held Viet Cong strong points in the country—and uncovered a vast complex of bunkers, trenches and fortifications.

Back a Holocaust

Firing 300 rounds of 5-inch rockets a minute, a Navy rocket ship opened up on the coastal area Wednesday. Within minutes the beach was a holocaust and it was evident the rocket ship had unearthed a major Red fortress.

Shattering secondary explosions began to rise from ammunition stores hidden in the bunkers. One massive explosion ripped a crater 30 feet across.

The screaming rockets, which landed in clustered bursts of 10, ripped open 77 Communist bunkers and uncovered and partially collapsed almost a mile of twisted trenches.

Helicopters zipping over the smoldering field counted only five bodies, but the armored

Change Proposed In Lobbying Law

MADISON (AP) — A bill to change Wisconsin's lobby laws to allow legislators to accept food and travel expenses from lobbyists was introduced Wednesday in the Assembly.

The bill requires only that lobbyists file reports of expenses with the secretary of state. The lobbyists would also have to swear no legislation was discussed with lawmakers involved in the expenses.

"It's an attempt to bring everything above the table," said Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca, author of the bill.

force which sped into the area this morning quickly ran into a firefight and killed 18 more Red soldiers.

Fighting was continuing at last report. The area was littered with booby traps exploded by the rocket bombardment. Smoldering, twisted logs jutted from the wrecked fortifications.

No U.S. Losses
The U.S. sweeping force numbered more than 300 men, with tanks, reconnaissance vehicles and Jeeps crisscrossing the area. Despite sporadic contacts, the U.S. force was suffering no losses to the enemy troops still around the bunkered area, U.S. spokesmen said.

Such a complex could easily house a Communist battalion of 500 men, probably more. It was located just east of the main coastal highway in an area of sand dunes and beach scrub that had been swept before without ground troops detecting anything.

American warplanes flew 112 missions over North Vietnam Wednesday, attacking two fuel and storage dumps and a radar site 3 to 4 miles north and northwest of Haiphong. Pilots reported the Cong Vodka storage complex heavily damaged, a large secondary explosion at the radar site and thick black smoke at the Loi Dong fuel dump.

Went Along With Ritual

Lieutenant's Drinking Death Stirs Investigation in Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army paratrooper drinking ritual ended in the death of a youthful, nondrinking lieutenant, who according to a coroner's report suffocated in his own vomit after swilling the equivalent of 17 ounces of vodka.

Now the Army is urging future close supervision over the use of alcohol in such military rituals, according to a statement today from Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff. It mentioned no ban.

They called the mid-April death of Lt. Ronald Greer Reeves, 23, accidental, untimely and a personal loss to all who knew him.

But Resor and Johnson said such functions "serve a useful role in developing esprit and a sense of unity within military units." They added the ceremonies "must never become a source of embarrassment to the individual or endanger his well-being."

And Brig. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, commander at Ft. Bragg, N.C., where Reeves was stationed, said

Wednesday his office would have to approve before future such functions could be held there.

Reeves, a Clemson University graduate, was carried from a so-called prop blast ritual the night of April 14 at the 82nd Airborne Division's headquarters at Ft. Bragg.

His body was found the following morning in the tourist home where he lived.

Cumberland County Coroner Alth Clark held a five-hour inquest into the affair and ruled Reeves died an accidental death.

No probable cause for criminal charges was found, the report showed. An autopsy performed by an Army pathologist showed Reeves' body contained a blood-alcohol content of 327 milligrams per gram of blood.

At the inquest, officers present at the prop blast testified that no one invited to the function need attend. And the Resor-Johnson statement said "Under no circumstances should an individual be penalized or ridiculed in any way for declining to participate in such functions."

The Washington Post, which published the story of Reeves' death in today's editions, said attendance at prop blasts is ordered on a document closely resembling an official military order. The Post said those who fail to attend — or refuse to drink a vodka-champagne concoction from a so-called blast cup — hurt their chances for promotion.

The Post said the story of Reeves' death was brought to its attention by relatives of other paratrooper officers at Ft. Bragg who fear for their health.

At the ceremony, the Post quoted unidentified witnesses as saying the initiates are required to drink while doing

Future Bleak For Outagamie Industrial Unit

Revenue Ruling Dims Possibility Of Tax Exemption

Another ruling by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regarding a Wisconsin group is making the future bleak for the Outagamie County Industrial Development Corp.

The IRS ruled Monday that Milwaukee County's application for tax exempt status for industrial development loans will be rejected.

Milwaukee County and the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce, in partnership called the Milwaukee County Industrial Development Corp., had sought the tax exempt status.

Similarly, so has the Appleton-Outagamie County group, the first in Wisconsin outside of Milwaukee, organized in an effort to combat raids on area industries by some Southern municipalities and states.

Corporation Membership Here, the corporation membership is comprised of Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and County Board representatives, the group being appointed by the county board.

"If theirs would be more specific in its objections, then we would be in a position to work for legislation on the state level to comply," was the observation today of Delmar Drumm, manager of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and County Industrial Development Corporation.

He said alternatives now left for Milwaukee, Appleton and other state communities caught in a technical situation were "quite cumbersome" and could drag on for two years or more.

Continue Effort Rep. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay, ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means and tax-writing committee, said despite the IRS rejection of the Milwaukee County group's application, which he claimed was based on technicalities, Milwaukee County and other areas of the state should continue to seek the tax exempt status.

"Wisconsin should put itself in a position to do what other states are now permitted to do in this area," Byrnes declared. The IRS maintains the county industrial development groups.

Teacher Retires After 33 Years

AMHERST — Mrs. Coral Atkinson, eighth grade teacher here and an elementary school teacher in Portage County for the past 33 years, has retired.

On Friday her 23 students surprised her with a party and awarded her with a "diploma" stating:

"Mrs. Atkinson has satisfactorily completed the course of teaching prescribed for retirement and is therefore entitled to this diploma" signed eighth grade, 1967.

Christine Fisher presented the plaque and a dozen long stemmed roses, also a gift from the class. Refreshments were served by Colleen Clinton and Linda Lutz.

Before coming to Amherst, Mrs. Atkinson taught at Stuart School, Buena Vista, Madley, Oakdale and Valley View.

Volunteers Battle Marsh Fire South Of Bear Creek

BEAR CREEK — The volunteer fire department extinguished a fire along the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks on the Henry Breifling farm 3 miles south of here on County Trunk D Wednesday afternoon.

The fire was started by a freight train about 2:30 p.m. and burned about three acres of swampland. A strong east wind was fanning the blaze into the timber.

The Lebanon Fire Department aided the Bear Creek group. The fire was extinguished by 5 p.m.

This same train also had set four other fires along the right-of-way.

Fire Levels Shed Near Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Fire of undetermined origin Wednesday afternoon burned a shed on the Arthur Ebert property, route 1. The volunteer rural fire department was called about 4:35 p.m. by a neighbor who noticed smoke. The property is east of State 45, south of here.

The only thing stored in the shed was a grain drill and Ebert reported he had some insurance coverage.

Firemen stayed at the scene for two hours until the fire was completely out. There was no estimate of damages.

Green Bay Woman Hurt in Mishap, but Car Hit for Second Time

A 25-year-old Green Bay woman suffered left hand and elbow bruises when her car was involved in a three-car accident in the 1800 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue about 7:35 a.m. Tuesday.

Appleton police said Francine E. Belschner was going to be treated by her doctor. Her car was making a left turn when it collided with a car driven by Walter H. Seehawer, 23, route 1, Fremont.

Police said Earl W. Vahides-tine, 39, 115 Gardeners Row, Appleton, stopped to assist at the accident and after getting out of his car, it rolled back into the Belschner auto.

Besides Alma and Edgar, the Gustav Winkel children were Hedwig, Leo and William.

Now Retired Edgar Winkel, who now considers himself retired, was a 55-year member of the volunteer fire department. He served from 1906 to 1961.

With the development of the city's comprehensive plan, the Winkel property will be the site of an ice skating rink, and an off-street parking lot.

County Group Challenges Dismissal of Supervisor

Vandals Ruin Flower Garden 4-H Project West of Manawa

MANAWA — Vandals in cars wrecked the summer beautification project of the Friendly Valley 4-H Club near Green Valley school west of here, just hours after the project was completed. Cars crisscrossed the flower bed rooting it up and ruining the community builders project.

Many hours of work had gone into the project. Grass was mowed and top soil hauled in and shaped for the flower bed. Monday evening club members worked four hours setting out flower plants and seeds which cost the club nearly $10. In a few weeks the bed would have been an attractive spot along a county road.

The project will be redone, according to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Beyer and Mrs. Franklin Ferg, club leaders. "It's a shame some people get their kicks from being so destructive" they said. The vandalism was discovered Tuesday morning.

Home Construction in Waupaca Off '66 Pace

4 Permits Issued for Dwellings Compared With 10 for Same Period Last Year

WAUPACA — New construction in Waupaca has slumped below the pace set last year, according to Iver Oerter, city building inspector.

For the first five months of 1967 only four building permits have been issued for new homes. Ten permits for homes were issued in the same period last year.

During May 12 permits were issued, two for new homes, two for razing buildings, and the others for home improvements.

Both new home permits were issued to the E and R Construction Co. One was for a $12,000 home to be constructed at 1203 Clark St., and the other for a $12,000 home at 1213 Clark St.

Raze Jail Permits were issued for razing the old Waupaca County Jail and to Basil Gill, 428 5th St., for removing part of a house.

Home improvement permits went to Vernon Grove, 530 Harriet St., for a $500 patio enclosure; Robert Stange, 515 S. Washington St., for a $3,000 home addition; A. K. Kropp, 325 W. Fulton St., for a $3,000 siding and roof repair project; John Gusmer, 122 Shadow Lake Drive, for remodeling a home.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Break-in

Chilton Man Charged With Entering Service Station

CHILTON — A preliminary hearing on charges of illegal entry brought against Robert Lasher, 33, route 3, Chilton, has been scheduled for 8:30 a.m. June 7 in Calumet County Court.

Lasher, arraigned Wednesday before Judge D. H. Sebor, is being held in lieu of $1,000 bond set by the court Monday.

Charges against Lasher stem for a break-in early Sunday at the Northside Sinclair Service Station on N. Madison Street. The break-in was discovered about midnight and Lasher was taken into custody about 30 minutes later in an uptown tavern. City police and Sheriff Irvan Vice made the arrest.

Lasher also has been named in warrants issued by Sheboygan authorities charging him with break-ins in that city during recent weeks. He moved to Chilton about three weeks ago.

Lasher was declared indigent and is represented by a court appointed attorney.

Claim Corporation Counsel Is Overstepping His Authority

Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath's right to apply the law was, in effect, challenged this Wednesday morning by the parks and recreation committee of the Outagamie County Board.

Ignoring a recently prepared brief by Ponath which states that Ralph L. Schwartz, of Appleton, is no longer a county board supervisor, the committee recognized Schwartz as a supervisor and allowed him to participate in the meeting as a committee member.

The committee voted, however, to have Schwartz' pay speculation inside the courthouse, also, that this would be Ponath's course of action.

Burden of Proof The purpose of the resolution would be to force the burden of proof upon Ponath, instead of Schwartz, who has retained Robert Bachman of Appleton as his attorney.

"We are not judges or attorneys," De Bruin said this morning, "and we're not taking sides. We're just not following the corporation counsel's legal advice."

Van Dyke asked, "Why do we have him, then, if we don't follow his advice?"

Judge Cane Raps Beatniks, Draft Dodgers

NEENAH-MENASHA — Winnebago County Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane rapped "long haired beatniks, draft dodgers and a few well intentioned but poorly informed citizens who seek to play down everything that our country stands for and what has made our country so great."

Speaking at Memorial Day services at Oak Hill Cemetery, the judge said, "It is very heartbreaking to most of us here this morning that the ideal of patriotism has not been cherished in our land, particularly the last several months."

Judge Cane praised the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who were in charge of the program, and other veterans groups for their efforts toward the spirit of patriotism and freedom.

"We surely must agree that freedom is not eternal. It must be defended by every generation, as the men in the field under Gen. Westmoreland in Vietnam are doing today, this very hour. If we are to keep our beloved America free, we must keep alive the spirit of combatting indifference to the ideals and principles which we cherish as Americans."

Hilbert Laying Plans For Summer Recreation

HILBERT — Planned summer recreation for children ages 8 to 16 of the Hilbert school district will begin June 19 and continue through July 27, four afternoons a week.

John McNaughton will be in charge of the program, which is tentatively set for 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Some morning activities, including swimming, may be added.

The program was planned during several meetings by Lawrence Mauthe, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Pruess, village clerk, who will serve as secretary again; Orville Manz, village president; Earl Anderson, high school principal; Mrs. Leander Roehrig, Leonard Suttner, Willard Franz and McNaughton. About a dozen young people will be asked to assist the director. McNaughton will submit a complete six-week schedule to the committee for approval next week.

A registration date will be set and participants will be asked to pay a small registration fee to cover insurance and swimming instructions.

Gary Schomburg, who has worked with area youth for several years, is organizing the Little League and Babe Ruth Baseball teams to include boys from 8 to 15. He received assurance from the committee that necessary equipment will be available to him.

Hilbert Men Escape Injury in Car Mishap Early Monday Morning

HILBERT — Two men escaped injury about 8:30 a.m. Monday when the vehicles they were driving collided at Sixth and Main Streets.

He applied his brakes to avoid hitting the auto driven by Charles L. Schwalenberg, 18, route 1, Hilbert. Schwalenberg had stopped for a stop sign and then started across Main.

Four games were played and one rained out in the Eastern-Western Division. Gresham beat Leopoldis, 9-4; Menominee downed Bowler, 11-7; Shawano edged Tigerton, 13-12, and Marion nudged Tilleda, 8-5.

Clintonville at Big Falls was rained out, and Caroline drew a bye.

wood. Dave Resch struck out nine and allowed seven hits in absorbing the loss.

John Meverson's triple was Birnamwood's only base hit.

Dan Neumeier struck out 20 and pitched a three-hitter as Gresham topped Leopoldis, despite losing hurler Greg Stezniski's 14 strikeouts. Lee Neumeier collected three of Gresham's 11 hits.

Four Hit Safely
Four batters hit safely at least three times in the Menominee All-Stars' victory over Bowler. Vaughn James, who homered, was the winning pitcher, while Mike Zienert was the loser.

Shawano committed seven errors but collected 14 hits as it defeated Tigerton, which also had 14 hits and played errorless ball. Ron Rassch, who relieved Ron Jesse in the fifth, was the winner.

Allen Anderson, relieved by Dave Dahlman in the second, was the loser. Marv Wiesnicht paced Shawano with two doubles and a pair of homers. Les Grimm had four hits in five trips and Ken Suehring hit a pair of homers.

The Appleton Annexation Plan

There were no startling new proposals in the Annexation Plan for the City of Appleton recently completed by Harland Bartholomew and Associates, the planning consultants who authored the city's comprehensive plan. The idea that Appleton will eventually expand to encompass all territory north and west to Highway 41 and be squared off on the east and south has been discussed for some years.

But the plan has the very great advantage of putting the annexation question as far as the city and surrounding townships are concerned in proper perspective.

The authors point out that "Annexation is a tool in the creation of an organized land use arrangement and an efficiently functioning community," and that "unless the city has an opportunity to adequately regulate surrounding growth, numerous inequalities and injustices will result."

The major objectives of annexation are thus described:

1. To provide adequate land areas within the corporate limits to accommodate anticipated growth.

2. To allow development to occur in a unified manner so that facilities and services may be provided without economic waste.

3. To plan for growth in a logical sequence, enabling public services and facilities to be fully utilized by all residents.

4. To ensure proper environmental control of adjacent undeveloped areas through the use of zoning controls, subdivision regulations and other protective measures, properly related to urban growth problems.

5. To create an urban center which will provide goods and services to residents in the community and the surrounding trade area economically.

The report points out that as the central community, Appleton residents provide numerous services and facilities to people living in the surrounding unincorporated areas and that Appleton residents "pay increased taxes for the extra burden caused by outside residents using the city's facilities." Streets must be widened, parking provided and traffic control expanded. The city provides parks, libraries and health facilities. "The burden on the city taxpayer becomes more and more unjust as growth continues to spread beyond the city limits."

It continues:
"Suburban developments in widely scat-

The Forgotten Girl

It was obvious, by listening to testimony, that no one was ready to take the blame for keeping a 15-year-old girl locked up in the Outagamie County Jail for 26 days last month.

Agencies and individuals involved in the case were quick to pass the buck, which is understandable because there was absolutely no excuse for the gross neglect of duty or responsibility, and to assume blame certainly would have invited public wrath.

It seems almost unbelievable that a girl — hardly more than a child — could sit in a juvenile detention cell almost unnoticed for nearly a month before anyone decided it was time to do something. Even then, it was a concerned jail cook and a judge who prompted action.

It is not our place to go into the confined girl's good or questionable characteristics. It would appear she had her share

Soviets Speak Out on Stalin's Daughter

The Soviet Union has officially now broken its silence about the defection of the daughter of Josef Stalin. The reference to the criticism has appeared in an editorial in Pravda and it does not sound encouraging as far as future moves toward better relations with the United States are concerned.

Like members of the John Birch Society, the Russians prefer the conspiracy theory of history. They see Mrs. Alliluyeva's defection as part of a United States Government sponsored plot to discredit the Soviet regime. "This campaign is being organized and implemented parallel to public statements that the United States ruling circles allegedly want a normalization of relations between our countries. The political unscrupulousness of the anti-Soviet propaganda people is boundless... Kerenky has been taken out of mothballs. . . . A 'complete collection of works' by the mentally disordered castaway, Tarsis, is being prepared for the press. . . The people in Washington are not finicky about who

Looking Backward

School Board Shows Its Power

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for May 30, 1867.

Many of the district boards have made or are just making their choice of school-books for the coming three years. A good many of them are adopting the list recommended by the convention held here in Appleton in the winter.

Others are making a choice more or less different.

In Hortonville (Outagamie District 1), a meeting was held to act upon the proposition to buy a globe and some large outline maps. The meeting decided by strong majority to buy them.

Then they took up a lively discussion of text-books, a large majority voting in favor of the convention's list.

The district board, however, made a wholly different official selection, and thus fixed the business adversely to the popular wish, for the coming three years.

tered locations cannot possibly provide essential services for themselves. Independent systems serving the population dispersed around Appleton would be inefficient and uneconomical. The city can conduct a uniform program of extending existing services outward from a common center at a fraction of the cost otherwise required. . . .

"It is doubtful that a satisfactory future city can be developed if the outlying area is comprised of fragmented governmental jurisdictions. This multiplicity of function is expensive, wasteful and seldom provides the unity an urban community should possess."

The public health factor may be the most important consideration. "As peripheral areas continue to develop with private water systems and septic tanks for the disposal of wastes, there is a strong possibility that environmental health problems will result."

And in conclusion the report states: "The satisfactory solution to the problems of providing the necessary urban services to these unincorporated suburban areas is for the city limits to be extended to include those areas which will accommodate anticipated future growth. By obtaining these less dense future growth areas adjacent to the city now, orderly development can be insured from the start."

The practical problem for a city in annexing surrounding undeveloped territory is whether it can afford to extend city services. One of the worst mistakes is to annex blindly and then discover city services cannot be immediately provided.

Thus one of the most important sections of the plan is the assignment of priorities to the surrounding areas which should be annexed and the fiscal calculations that extensions of services can be provided on the suggested schedule.

The report gives the City of Appleton a plan to go to work on. The Mayor and Council should establish an annexation committee or commission to start on its implementation. And one of the first jobs of that body should be to establish good working relationships with the town governments involved and to convince the people living in the affected areas that their best interests will be served by eventual annexation.

The growth of the City of Appleton beyond its present boundaries is inevitable. If everyone involved comes to this realization, the transition can be made in an orderly and practical manner.

of each. But even the most wanton criminal is afforded more consideration and recognition of legal rights than was this teenager who was confined three and a half weeks on nothing more than a detention order secured by her mother, who court testimony revealed cared precious little for her daughter.

The girl's court-appointed attorney took the responsible city and county agencies and individuals to task for the neglect which no one seemed to want to claim.

We believe there should be more than a reprimand. We would ask that a thorough study and appraisal be made, by the appropriate agencies, of the methods by which juveniles are detained in the county jail. If there are shortcomings, the public has a right to know what they are, who is responsible, and what will be done in the way of swift remedial action.

they use. . . All attempts of official Washington to disassociate itself from the anti-Soviet campaigns are intended for naive people. . . .

The editorial further charges that CIA agents took Stalin's daughter from India to Switzerland and then to the United States where she is being used "for the unseemly purpose" of discrediting the Soviet Union.

Actually it appeared that Mrs. Alliluyeva was not encouraged to come to the United States because some State Department officials feared her presence would damage American-Russian relations. Naturally the Soviet regime is bothered by her defection and is especially sensitive to criticism from people who have received relatively preferential treatment in Communist circles.

The American reaction to the charges should continue to be moderate. In view of the Vietnamese war it may not be possible to improve relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. But there is no profit in escalating the tension between the two countries in spite of the obviously harder Russian line.

But they had a perfect legal right to do so.

Attempt to Recall Sen. Church Most Unconservative Thing to Do

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

One can understand the impatience of the voters of Idaho to do better for themselves than Senator Frank Church. He is the gentlemen best forgotten for his dreadful keynote address at the Democratic Convention of 1960. Now his views on Vietnam are not those of the Administration or of the leaders of the Republican Party, or, it appears, of the citizens of Idaho — who now desire to replace Senator Church by recourse to the populist extreme of recall.

Buckley

My own hope is a) that the recall movement will fail; b) that if it doesn't, that the courts will knock it out; and c) that Senator Church will be conventionally defeated at the polls in the fall of 1968 when after German subs torpedoed two Mexican ships and Germany refused to accept a note of protest.

Top honor students at Kimberly High School were Patricia Dietzler, Mary Vander Weilen, Eileen Hartzheim and Dorothy Mae Kramer. The seniors were to take part in commencement exercises.

Lawrence Schiedermaier was named to Badger Boys State from Kaukauna High School and the Badger Girls State representative was Lois Berg. Both were honor students.

16 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 30, 1957

New officers of the Afternoon Homemakers Club at Kaukauna included Mrs. Tony Van Dyke, president; Mrs. J. J. Martins, vice president; Mrs. Martha Britten, secretary, and Mrs. Leonard Van Zeeland, treasurer.

Two awards in drama went to Mrs. Bette Johnson Jackson, Appleton student at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill. The former Appleton woman received the National Collegiate Players award and the Theater Arts Department award for creative ability.

Crowned Miss Winneconne of 1957 was Miss Mary Ellen Disch. Runners-up were the Misses Margie Becker and Margaret Korn. The new Miss Winneconne received her crown from the previous year's winner, Miss Beverly Broehm.

he is due to run for reelection.

Although the recall movement is being backed primarily by conservatives, it is a most un-conservative thing that they are doing. It is especially strange that some of the people who have associated themselves with the movement adopt as their principal political slogan the motto "This is a republic, not a democracy. Let's keep it that way."

REPUBLIC VS. DEMOCRACY

One of the more important differences between a republic and a democracy is rule by representatives of the people rather than rule directly by the people themselves. If the latter were truly desirable, we could have running democracy without any difficulty at all by simply plugging in Dr. Gallup to a big IBM machine and turning on the dial. Do you prefer Johnson or Nixon? If the answer on Monday is Nixon 51, Johnson 49, we could simply flash the helicopter to jettison Lyndon, and pop up to New York to fetch Nixon, who then would be President until . . . Do you prefer Nixon or Romney? T u e s d a y , when Romney comes in. . .

And so for all the senators, and for all the congressmen, until someone stopped to ask the question: why have any elected officials at all? Why not just constantly submit questions about everything to the voters, and let them decide directly?

The attitude of the gentlemen from Idaho who desire to recall Senator Church reminds one of the importunate citizens of Massachusetts who tried to suggest to John Quincy Adams in the 1830's that his business as Congressman was to register exactly their views on public matters. To which the ex-President replied that for such a job clerks were available, that his notion of representative government was not that of someone sent to Washington to transcribe the fluctuations in popular opinion back home, but that of a man in whose capacities the voters have confidence, which confidence they may renew or not at regular intervals.

Those regular intervals are of course specified by the Constitution, and it is unlikely even if the voters of Idaho proceeded to recall Senator Church, that the Senate would comply with the recall.

WHY NOT WAIT?

Hinds' "Precedents of the House of Representatives," as reliable an exegete of the Constitution as any, reminds us that "a State may not add to the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution for members of the Senate and House of Representatives." And gives two examples: "Asserting this principle, the House in 1807 seated a member whose election was contested on the ground that he had not been twelve months a resident of the district from which elected as required by State law. No attempt was made to ascertain whether these requirements were met because the State law was deemed to be unconstitutional. Both the House and Senate have seated members elected during their term of office as State judges, despite the provision of State constitutions purporting to bar the election of judges to any other office under the State or the United States during such term."

No doubt Idaho would argue that to recall a senator is not the same as "adding to the qualifications" prescribed by the Constitution. And no doubt the Senate would reply that that is in effect what is being done to Senator Church: adding the qualification that he shall voice views harmonious with those of the majority. The latter is surely the more reasonable construction.

Why not wait? 1968 is not so far away, and in the meantime Senator Church is not going to change our foreign policy. He is not, by his eccentric views, threatening the republic nearly so much as the new populists of Idaho.

Wisconsin Report

Public May Demand Better Discipline On College Campuses

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — What has made the series of unruly eruptions by students on state university campuses lately so incomprehensible to adults is the triviality, even the artificiality, or the issues that ostensibly set them off.

In Madison students took to the streets to attempt to bluff the city administration into accepting their own point of view on the management of traffic, which is admittedly a difficult and perplexing matter in the growing state capital with its isthmus location.

Wyngaard

At Platteville and Stevens Point the students shouted their grievances about beer regulations, actual and prospective, as if to say that this is the great and moving issue of the times. With a full awareness that some of these young people regard anyone over 40 as ancient and a fuddy-duddy, it is perhaps permissible to recollect that only a few student generations ago such demonstrations would have been laughed away by serious students. They would have been dealt with by the school authorities with a good deal more decisiveness than the present education administration establishment appears willing to exhibit.

THE IRONY OF IT

There is an ironic contradiction in the demand of some young people, on the one hand, for the privileges of adulthood, including the right to vote at 18 or 19, while their contemporaries refute the idea by their puerile antics.

The movement for a younger voting age has appeared to get some support in the legislature lately. One house has actually given final approval to lowering the age qualification to 19 years.

But there may be second thoughts about the matter, when the young people who are by their own definition the cream of their generation assume that they can stampede a city council into adopting an ordinance against its own better judgment, make sport of the governor of the state and force him to sneak out of the back door of his hotel in order to avoid a physical encounter, while filling the air with lamentations about the possible elimination of teen-age beer bars.

There is a temptation in such situations to preach. Perhaps a recollection of the conditions of college life in my own depression generation is invidious. Yet it is hard to suppress the thought that college has been made so easy for so many thousands of young people today that there is a tendency among them to think and act as the pampered favorites of society.

IMPLY SPECIAL STATUS

The letters columns of the Madison papers are revelatory, in some ways. Typically when a student writes the editor to sound off on something that appears important to him, he will declare the fact that he is a student — as if that gives him a special status and a certificate of superiority over the boy on the farm or in the factory, or the girl working in an office or tending to her housework at home. One student the other day actually denounced the publicly operated UW dormitories, which are providing the highest standard of living for the college generation of today that was ever provided in public institutions anywhere in the world.

Legislators sometimes exploit such opportunities for their own publicity purposes. Yet the students should know that even the more reserved and conscientious public officials struggling with the problem of providing the multimillion dollar sums of tax money that assure these young men best educational opportunities Americans ever had, are becoming impatient. Gov. Knowles would avoid involvement in a quarrel with the education managers if he could. Yet he was indignant enough the other day to publish a letter in which he wondered if the high-salaried heads of the public schools will ever revert to the accepted standards of discipline of another day.

Raising the bail money, as two state school presidents did lately, is scarcely a way to show disapproval of the acts of students that brought about their arrest by the local police. Most persons would regard it, instead, as a deliberate gesture of sympathy. A couple of expulsions here and there, in a time when the evicted student might find it difficult to open doors on other campuses, would re-establish disciplinary standards. The educators are grievously misinterpreting the attitude of the public they serve.

Thoughts at Large Harris Topic Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One can always tell when a nation is preparing to violate justice against its neighbors — for then the ruler assembles great congresses and assumes all the formalities of law, in of despotism is to exile the thinkers.

The hawks are half-right in insisting that there is no victory in peace; what they cannot see is that there is no peace in victory, never has been, and never can be for very long.

Old fogies who deplore the manners of "modern youth" would do well to recall the complaint of La Rochefoucauld 300 years ago: "Most young people think they are being natural when they are only boorish and rude."

Speaking of young people, children should be taught that getting off to a wrong start is the most damaging thing that can happen to them — just as beginning to button a coat at the wrong hole means that the whole coat will be buttoned lopsided.

The way a people spend their money is much more indicative of national character than the way they make their money; the latter is usually necessitated by natural resources and economic considerations, while the former is a free gesture expressing their basic drives.

The poorest prophet is the man who did well in different times.

Looking for direct "cause and effect" in history is a vain and fruitless pursuit — for every "cause" is itself the "effect" of some previous cause, and so we go backward ad infinitum.

By the time parents know enough to give sound advice, it is usually too late to make much difference one way or the other.

We are grateful, for narrow escapes in the course of life, but hardly anyone considers how narrowly he escaped not being born at all.

Note on Changing Times: A 40-year-old man I know recently shaved off his beard; when I asked him why, he replied, "Because I had the feeling it made me look too young."

We can improve ourselves only in the direction of our natural bent, and not against the grain; and most campaigns of self-reform fail because they take too much account of rules and not enough of temperament.

Women become expert in concealing love, men in concealing hate; but hardly anyone has enough skill in dissimulation to conceal indifference.

HUD Adds $21,000 to Plan Commission Grant

Northeastern Wisconsin Agency to Use Extra Funds to Hire Draftsmen, Planners

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved a grant which will result in about $21,000 being added to the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission's 701 planning grant.

The funds will be administered through Wisconsin's Department of Resource Development.

The commission applied for the amendatory planning grant in January. Commission activities currently are being funded by a two-year grant which extends to May 1, 1968, according to William E. Morris, executive director.

Planning grants are used to provide general services for commission members. Morris said the grant would enable the commission to be of greater service to the counties.

Previous planning grants for the two-year period totaled approximately $114,000. The grants are awarded on a share basis with HUD providing two-thirds of the total and the member counties giving a third.

Morris said the new grant will be used to pay salaries for two full-time draftsmen and two full-time assistant planners. Counties which are members of the commission are Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca, Waushara, Shawano, Menominee, Langlade, Forest and Florence.

He stressed that in order to get the parade organized for the afternoon of July 9 merchants should make entries soon.

Frenche was arrested May 21 in the Town of Bear Creek and arraigned in Municipal Justice Court May 22. At that time he was bound over to County Court for trial. From the time of his arrest until Wednesday, Frenche was held in the county jail in lieu of a $500 bond. He was released by Judge McHenry Wednesday on his own recognizance.

Legal Ruling Sought on Town Incorporation Bill

Assembly Turns to Attorney General for Opinion on Constitutionality of Proposal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Assembly turned to the attorney general's office Wednesday for a formal legal opinion on the constitutionality of a bill which would allow towns to become cities — probably stalling action on the proposal for the remainder of the spring session of the legislature.

The opinion was sought on the bill arising from city efforts to win the power of unilateral annexation of urbanized suburban areas from this session of the legislature.

That bill also has been stalled by a request of the state's attorney for an opinion on constitutionality.

The town incorporation bill, strongly backed by town officials from throughout the Fox River Valley, was sent to the legal department despite efforts by Assemblyman Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, to block the action. His attempt failed on an 83-11 vote, and the request was made on a voice vote.

Under the town-backed proposal, towns would be allowed to become cities if their population exceeds 5,000 persons and their valuation is determined to be in excess of $20 million.

Hearing Set On Status of New UW-GB

Bill Would Place School in State University System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The bill designed to convert the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay into a campus of the state university system will be considered in a public hearing starting at 9 a.m. June 7 at Madison.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblymen Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, and J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, was introduced in reaction to what they have termed a changing of the intent of the act authorizing new two-year campuses in northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin, into full-fledged four-year institutions.

The hearing, before the Assembly education committee will be in Room 213 NW of the state capitol.

Also to be considered at the hearing are bills relating to tuition scholarships awarded by legislators to state collegiate institutions, a guaranteed loan program for college and university students and partial tuition payments for some vocational school students.

makes no difference; I just don't want us to be sorry for something we might do."

The motion to recognize Schwartz, but to withhold his per diem pay in escrow, was made by Supv. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, and supported by Supv. Mark Verfurth, Kaukauna. Van Dyke cast the only "no" vote.

"He (Schwartz) was judged without a hearing," De Bruin said. "This issue involves the voting rights of the people. The decision to remove Schwartz was a decision made only by the county board chairman and the corporation counsel."

Bids Rejected

Van Dyke referred to an action taken by the committee two weeks ago in which bids for Plamann Park playground equipment purchases were rejected by the parks and recreation committee. The move to reject the bids was made by Bubolz and seconded by Schwartz, according to minutes.

"If Ponath's opinion is upheld by the courts," Van Dyke said, "then the motion wasn't even properly seconded because Schwartz may not be a legal supervisor. So then, there is no motion."

"We'll just have to cross that bridge when we come to it," De Bruin said.

"We're groping here," Van Dyke shot back, "because we're not legal minds."

De Bruin answered that the committee is "responsible to the people and that's how we're trying to act. This matter has been decided by Esler and Ponath, but it has never come before a court of law."

Van Dyke said the committee was "acting as a judge and jury by saying that Ponath is, in effect, wrong."

Bubolz indicated that the committee's action is based on principle. The question is not whether Schwartz vacated his position by leaving his district, but whether Ponath and Esler have the executive authority to enforce laws.

Mideast Crisis Taking on Aura Of Showdown

Ordinary Whipping Up of Hatreds Could Fade Without War

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If it were just a matter of bugle blowing, calling men to the colors, and whipping up patriotic frenzy and hatred in Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Syria and elsewhere in the Middle East the crisis there might melt away without war.

But Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser gave all of it a showdown tone when he barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba, and announced he could never be persuaded to drop his blockade.

Eilat, at the southeast tip of Israel on the north end of the Gulf of Aqaba, is its port for direct shipping to and from Asia and East Africa. Ninety per cent of Israel's oil is imported through Eilat.

Around Africa
If Nasser can keep it closed to all vessels bound for Israel through the Gulf of Aqaba, then they will have to travel around all of Africa and through the whole length of the Mediterranean.

Since he seized the Suez Canal in 1956 Nasser has barred all shipping to or from Israel through that channel, which lies within Egyptian territory.

But the Gulf of Aqaba, connected with the Red Sea, is bounded by four nations: Israel and Jordan at its northern tip, then further down, Egypt on the west and Saudi Arabia on the east.

The United States has declared the Gulf of Aqaba an international waterway. The Suez Canal might be considered the same but, after the uproar over Nasser's seizure of it, the world permitted him to bar Israeli shipping from it.

Permit Shipping
Eventually, as the result of pressure in the present furor, Nasser may agree to let ships bound for Eilat use the Gulf of Aqaba so long as they do not bear the Israeli flag.

But, if he is permitted to do that, he will have established his right to bar ships, if only Israeli-owned ships, from the gulf. Then, the next time the mood seized him, he could argue his right to bar all shipping bound for Eilat.

After the Middle East war which followed the creation of the state of Israel in 1948, Nasser did bar Israeli shipping from the gulf but he lost that control after the Israeli-British-French attack on Egypt in 1956.

Sharm el Sheik
At that time the Israeli forces swept down through Egypt's Sinai Peninsula — bounded on the east by the Gulf of Aqaba and on the west by the Gulf of Suez — and drove Egyptian troops from Sharm el Sheik, a key point in this whole business.

It's at the southeast tip of the Sinai Peninsula, overlooking the Strait of Tiran which links the Gulf of Aqaba with the Red Sea. That strait has a 900-yard-wide opening, making it easy for Nasser to dominate all shipping through it.

The channel through the strait lies along the Egyptian shore. So long as he could put troops and cannon at Sharm el Sheik — before 1956 — Nasser could keep all Israeli shipping out of it and thus out of the Gulf of Aqaba.

U.N. Mission

He lost that control, of course, when the Israelis took the strategic point in 1956. They agreed to leave it in 1957, after peace was restored, on condition that a U.N. peacekeeping force be stationed at Sharm el Sheik to assure Israel use of the Strait of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba.

But last month, when Nasser ordered the U.N. forces out of all Egypt, they had to leave Sharm to him. He promptly manned it and banned Israeli shipping again.

Bars Forbidden

Yet, in 1958 a U.N. conference on the law of the sea voted overwhelmingly against forbidding "innocent passage of foreign

Chinese Learning to Live With Mao

By CHIE NISHIO

PEKING (AP) — On the surface it looks as if the people of mainland China are learning to live with Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge.

Before they pick up their chopsticks in city restaurants they recite from the red plastic-covered booklets of Mao sayings.

When they window-shop, they must peer between the frayed edges of wall newspapers plastered over store windows.

At night, in their dimly lit cities, they get more cultural revolution, in movies, ballets, and discussion groups.

In our tour of China we saw no sign of the violence often reported in the wall newspapers although we noted an undercurrent of tension at one commune.

Struggle of Titans

The people went about their daily work, amid the trappings of the cultural revolution, seemingly unmindful of the struggle of titans going on between Mao and President Liu Shao-chi.

Housewives, only a few hanging onto tots, crowded the Canton city market, standing in line twice a day to buy fresh foods for the midday meal and again for the evening.

The stalls were filled with beef, chicken, fish, cleaned fresh vegetables. Most of it hung from overhead frames. It looked good, and prices seemed cheap.

Special counters were manned by government inspectors to check prices and weights.

In Peking and Shanghai there was the traffic of a big city, but it was mostly bicycles.

Busts of Mao

Factories were busy. One, at Fatshan, specialized in enamelware. It employed 500 persons and concentrated on making busts of Mao for government offices. It received so many orders in 1966 that the last one will not be filled until August.

Then they will start on the 1967 orders.

In Shanghai we saw a worker's apartment — one room to one family, with a separate private kitchen and bathroom. One tourist commented that the apartment was too small, but the official interpreter retorted: "They used to live in worse conditions."

May Day added a bit of spice to this steady diet of Mao and politics.

May Day Crowd

We arrived in Peking the day before, and people from the countryside were already taking up positions in spacious Gate of Heavenly Peace Square.

Normally there are few gay lights in China cities, but for May Day red and yellow lights sparkled on buildings like Christmas tree lights.

Early May Day morning we walked through the Peking parks. It was a big, big festival, just like a carnival. Everybody was smiling. Everybody was in good humor. It was the only time soldiers didn't mind me taking pictures of them.

At the square itself there were fewer families and babies. Some of the women wore military outfits. Most of the people seemed to be in their everyday clothes, nothing special.

See Mao

All were waiting for nightfall, for a chance to see Mao.

I was far back, and the sun had set. Music came over the public address system. There was a spotlight on the distant gate. I could see a small figure waving.

He came down to the crowd and the guide said: "Here comes Mao." The crush of the crowd was great. Several persons were carried out.

Then the figure moved back up to the gate. He waved, and there was cheering.

In the distance he was so small we could not tell exactly who he was. I looked through a powerful camera lens but even then he was just a shadow in the circle of the spotlight.

He remained before the audience for about 10 minutes, then the spotlight was turned off.

Favorable Vote in Rules Committee

Froehlich Bill Curbs State Agency's Power

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill designed to restrict the power of the State Building Commission to take formal action without holding a public hearing was recommended for introduction Wednesday by the Assembly's rules committee.

The bill, sponsored by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, and Assemblyman Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, would prohibit the state building agency from receiving any votes from a member not actually present at a meeting.

Blocked by the bill would be the use of mail and telephone ballots, which the agency and its subcommittees frequently use when speedy action is needed on state projects.

Blocks Disclosure

Critics have charged that the use of such voting procedures often is designed to block public disclosure of proposed state action until consideration is ended and the project begun.

Froehlich also won recommendation from the committee for a bill which he will introduce which would allow county sheriff and traffic departments to be merged under state civil service laws, as has been done in Outagamie and Shawano counties.

The bill would allow such mergers to take place where desired in the future, approve those now in process and remove any doubt as to the legitimacy of mergers accomplished in the past.

Such mergers are placed in doubt by seemingly conflicting sections of statutes, Froehlich explained to the committee. The speaker introduced a similar bill in the 1965 Legislature which passed the lower house, but died in the Senate.

Outside Public Relations

A bill designed to limit the expenditures of state agencies on outside public relations firms was approved for introduction after being offered by Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca.

"I got the idea on the way to the dump," he explained. "I had about 50 pounds of literature with me that I had received during the past week when I was away from home," he told the committee.

ships through straits" connecting international waters with the high seas.

The Arab nations were implicitly forbidden to halt ships bound for Eilat through the strait and the gulf. But the Arab states, including Egypt, abstained from the vote. So Nasser can say he was not a party to such a ruling.

Israel has indicated it won't stand still more than a few weeks for what Nasser did. If, by the end of that time Nasser hasn't backed down and the United Nations can't find a solution, the shooting probably will begin.

Opposing a spending measure which would bring a world's festival to Wisconsin was Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah.

The bill, which was recommended for introduction on a 10-1 vote, would appropriate $25,000 of state funds in an attempt to lure a world exposition to Milwaukee. Authors of the bill are the Milwaukee County legislative delegation.
